Our Town

It is heartening to find a candidate for governor who is directing the attention of the people to the evils of bloc politics and undemocratic secret groups. That candidate is Lynch Davidson. The Farm-Labor Union and the Ku Klux Klan, if by any reason could have found a place of service and welcome in our social economy, have fallen the victims of their own folly in a pernicious political projection. It is inconceivable that a state or nation could lapse so far from "open covenants, openly arrived at" as to embrace the cancerous policy of secret government. We fear for the future of democracy if the party is to cover so wide a range of political dissensions and at this time of all times in American life when we need democracy to lead the people the crisis of testing "whether a government so conceived and so dedicated can long endure" is apparently reversing the fortunes of the party.

Cameron Democrats are called to meet in precinct convention Saturday May 3 at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention which is to be held in Cameron on May 6. As a result of a complex political situation over the country the selection of delegates is perhaps more important at this time than at any other time in recent years. Thinking Democrats in the county as well as over the state and nation must meet the challenge of responsibility. The available, active candidates for the Presidency as Democrats are hardly acceptable and it now appears unwise to send an instructed delegation to the New York convention.

While the advisability of sending an uninstructed delegation to the Democratic Convention in New York may be impressive as a political strategy in view of the contributing elements but the unwarranted attack upon the integrity of William G. McAdoo by Governor Neff in his present tour of Texas will surely stir the Democrats of Texas to a point of hot resentment. It would not be at all surprising to see an instructed delegation to New York as a rebuke to the governor who is undoubtedly carrying his attack upon McAdoo and Underwood to far to be helpful in equitably adjusting the political controversies of the party. Without discussing the availability of Mr. McAdoo or Mr. Underwood as Democratic candidates, certainly no enthusiasm can be worked up for a "dark horse" if the Democrats of Texas are unable to fix an estimate of who he might be. Certainly there are men more to our liking for the nomination but party chances are too important to interpose personalities into the race. Many people are asking what the governor wants and just how he proposes to get it.

Based upon the demands made by the school board for funds to carry on its building program at the high school where property has been purchased, it now appears that no money will be left for grammar school repairs and the negro school building. Only one hundred thousand dollars of the bonds have been sold and therefore not enough money will be available to meet the requirements of the program as outlined by the board. Few people, if they think, will sympathize with any program that does not include an expenditure of at least $20,000 for the negro school. So far as can be learned no plans whatever have been projected by the Dallas architect for the negro building. The needs of the negroes are more pronounced than are the needs of the white schools, both as to room, building and equipment. "Our Town" editor propounds to the school board the question of what is planned for the negroes and asks the board to answer for the information of the negro tax payers and parents of children to receive better educational advantages.

Prof. W. F. Grant of Oakdale visited friends in Cameron Tuesday before leaving Wednesday for Dallas where he will spend some time with his daughter, Mrs. Lucille Slicher.

New City Officers Are Sworn In And Take Over City Government

Judd G. Davis took the oath of office as Mayor of the City of Cameron Tuesday night at eight o'clock and immediately thereafter submitted to the council his appointments for the ensuing year.

The oath of office was administered by retiring Mayor J. B. White who congratulated the incoming executive and yielded the key to the city.

Mr. Davis on his accession to office administered the oath to Ray Robinson, the new city marshal and to Will Cook, assistant marshal and night watchman, and Joe Richter who is to be night watchman in Santa Fe town.

The city council passed a resolution commending the service of the retiring mayor, J. B. White, marshal, Vince Lucas and deputy marshal, Geo. Richards.

Two changes were made in the personnel of the school board. E. A. Wallace was appointed to the place held by Dr. John L. Denson and O. L. Kidd takes the place of Dr. A. S. Epperson on the board. Dr. Denson resigned from the board and Dr. Epperson asked that he be not reappointed and for this reason, it was said by Mayor Davis, his place filled by another.

Dr. W. R. Newton was appointed city health officer to take the place formerly held by Dr. T. G. VanZandt. Mrs. W. O. Triggs and Mrs. W. G. Gillis were reappointed to the school board.

CHAS. SENS CANDIDATE FOR CONSTABLE HERE

ASKS RE-ELECTION SUBJECT TO ACTION OF DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY IN JULY.

Chas. Sens, constable of Precinct 1 has announced his candidacy for re-election to that office subject to action of the Democratic Primary in July.

Mr. Sens is now serving and asks for re-election to this office, promising the people his best efforts to discharge the duties incumbent upon him.

Mr. Sens invites the attention of the people to his candidacy and calls upon his friends over the precinct to help him in his race for re-election.

While serving in this office for the past few years Mr. Sens has met the expectations of his friends in the discharge of his duties and is seeking re-election on his merits as an officer.

By reason of his long experience as an officer Mr. Sens is peculiarly fitted for this place and anything his friends may do for him will be greatly appreciated. He will see the voters and make an active campaign for the office.

PIPELINE IS SOLD

All pipe lines, loading racks, tanks and all equipment owned by the Milam Petroleum Company has been purchased by the Owens Refining Company.

The price paid to W. H. Warren, president of the company is said to have been in excess of $15,000. The deal was closed Thursday and the money paid over.

This pipe line has been in operation since February. The Owens Refining Company now controls the entire pipe line and transportation facilities of the field.

R. M. Warren of Corsicana, who has business interests in the Cameron-Minerva Oil field, was a visitor in the city today.

RETIRING OFFICERS ARE PRAISED IN RESOLUTION

CITY COUNCIL EXPRESSES THANKS FOR SERVICE OF MEN LEAVING OFFICE.

Tuesday night the city council passed a resolution commending the services of all retiring city officials. The resolution is as follows:

Whereas, the Honorable J. B. White, Mayor, Vince Lucas Marshal, and Geo. Richards, Deputy Marshal, have served the City of Cameron faithfully and well for the past two years, and their terms of office expire on this date; and,

Whereas, the services of these three officers deserve the recognition of the fellow officers with whom they have served;

Now Therefore, be it Resolved by the City Council of the City of Cameron:

First: That we express to Mayor White, Marshal Lucas and Deputy Geo. Richards, our profound appreciation of their tireless, efficient and unselfish service to our city.

Second: That we commend their devotion to duty, their steadfastness and courage in the face of obstacles, their loyalty to our town, and their unswerving efforts to make our city the best town in Texas to live in.

Third: That we recognize the value of the work done by these three retiring officers, and predict that the impress which they have made upon our lives and institutions will survive them throughout the years, and serve as markers in the progress of our City.

Fourth: That we express our regret at their retirement from public life and our best wishes for their future activities.

Fifth: That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the Cameron Enterprise and the Cameron Herald for publication, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes.

Respectfully submitted,
OXSHEER SMITH.

THE HERALD CAMPAIGN CLOSSES SATURDAY 9 P. M.

On the Home Stretch—Neck and Neck—Last Lap Tells the Winner. Old Faithful First Under the Wire. Fight Hard and Win—Stop and Lose. Rumors Afloat Mean Nothing.

To prove to the public that the Herald campaign is absolutely fair and impartial we believe it best, now as the campaign is drawing to a close to publish the full particulars of the handling of the campaign during the last few days.

Following the reports from candidates Wednesday, each candidate was notified that during the remaining days neither the editor of the Herald nor the campaign manager, H. C. Bullock would receive reports or subscriptions from any candidate. Each candidate is instructed to take her money and reports on subscriptions to the First National Bank next Saturday night and deposit them in the ballot box, which is locked up and sealed.

The ballot box will be locked and the key to the box is sealed in an envelope and in the bank vault and will remain there until called for by the judges at nine o'clock next Saturday night.

No person on earth knows what the vote of any candidate is, but that candidate herself, nor will there be anyway of knowing until the box is opened by the judges.

The sealed ballot box will remain

50 Years Ago County Court House Burned

Fifty years ago last Thursday April 9 the court house in Cameron was burned. Few now living in Cameron were here when the court house was destroyed. It was thought at that time and is now believed that the fire was of an incendiary origin as a number of court houses in Texas were burned in succession. Northern land sharks are said to have put over a number of questionable land deals and sought to destroy the deed records. In the burning of the Milam county court house they were successful for all records were destroyed and nothing was saved except indictments found at the January term of the grand jury.

POLITICS WARMING UP ON COMING CONVENTION

BELIEF EXPRESSED COUNTY WILL SEND UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES TO WACO.

As the time approaches for the precinct and county Democratic convention to name delegates, interest increases and Democrats are beginning to plan a course of action.

The speaking campaign now in progress by Pat M. Neff asking for an uninstructed delegation to the New York convention has stirred up a great deal of interest. The governor will speak in Cameron Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Executive committee chairman W. G. Gillis has sent out instructions to the eight precincts in the county for the holding of the conventions. The convention in Precinct one which is Cameron will be held at 7:30 p. m. May 3 to select delegates to the county convention.

Judge Gillis sets the date for the county convention to be held on May 6 to select delegates to the state convention at Waco where delegates to the national convention will be selected.

at the First National Bank until 9 o'clock Saturday night.

At nine o'clock next Saturday night the judges will go to the bank and the ballot box and the key will be turned over to them. The box will be opened and each candidate's total returns of the entire campaign carefully checked up by all the judges.

By conducting the closing of the campaign in this manner candidates are assured that absolute fairness will prevail. The candidate who gets the largest number of votes will win the Coach and no person will have (continued on page 11)

"Go to Sunday School" Movement Hailed As Big Aid to Churches

ED. F. ENGLISH IN RACE FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE

FORMER JUSTICE AND POSTMASTER SUBMITS CANDIDACY TO THE PEOPLE.

Ed. F. English is a candidate for Justice of Peace in Precinct 1 subject to action of the Democratic Primary in July.

The announcement that he will make the race for this office was made by Mr. English Wednesday.

In 1915 Judge English saw service in this office but resigned to become postmaster of Cameron under the administration of Woodrow Wilson. He served as postmaster for 5 years, resigning when his health failed in 1920.

When Judge English retired from the office of Justice of the Peace the Cameron Bar Association presented him with a gold headed walking cane, the presentation speech being made by W. G. Gillis.

Judge English invites the attention of the voters to his candidacy and calls on his friends in the precinct to assist him in his campaign.

By reason of his service in this office and experience Judge English believes he will be able to render the best possible service and is making the race on his merits.

JUDGE JEFF T. KEMP IS CANDIDATE RE-ELECTION

POPULAR COUNTY JUDGE SEEKS RE-ELECTION SECOND TERM IN OFFICE.

Judge Jeff T. Kemp has announced his candidacy for a second term in the office of County Judge subject to action of the Democratic primary in July.

This announcement will be received by his many friends throughout the county. He has served in the capacity of a public official for a number of years but only two years in the office of county judge.

Mr. Kemp needs no introduction to the people of Milam county for he is personally acquainted with more people, perhaps, than any man in the county and commands a large friendship from all ranks of men.

As county judge of the county Mr. Kemp has met every expectation of his friends and has handled the affairs of that office in a way to bring not only distinction to himself but credit to the county.

He has been active in co-operating with the various road districts in their bond matters and has presided over the Commissioners court in a way pleasing to all with fairness and firmness in the light.

The Confederate veterans of this section have no better friend than Judge Kemp who at all times takes an interest in their affairs, aiding them in their pension problems and generally showing his keen interest in them.

Judge Kemp asks the support of the people of this county for a second term in this office and while he is personally acquainted with the voters everywhere he will make an active campaign to talk with the people about their problems.

NEW NIGHT WATCHMAN FORMERLY SERVED IN THAT POSITION.

Will Cook, newly appointed night watchman for this city, has had experience in this position, having served as night watchman in the city in 1916. Mr. Cook has been with the compress company in Cameron for a number of years as watchman.

Mr. Cook has a gold badge that was given to him by the business men in 1916.

What is proclaimed as the greatest Sunday school movement in the history of the city is embraced in the plans of the churches of Cameron who have designated Sunday May 4 as "Go to Sunday School Day" in Cameron.

The goal for the five churches co-operating in this movement has been set at 1500. This is said to be approximately the resident membership of the churches co-operating.

The movement was first launched by the Pastor's Association and a meeting was held in the Methodist church at which time plans were made.

So far, however, no definite program has been mapped out for the church or Sunday school service on that day but appropriate exercises will be held.

It is said that one of the features of the morning will be a parade to be participated in by the various churches co-operating in the movement.

Interest is being taken in the "Go to Sunday School" movement among all ages of Sunday school pupils and the church as well. The pastors are working hard to make the day one of church history in Cameron.

The people of the churches are asked to make their plans in advance of the day and come to Sunday school on that day. It will tax the capacities of the churches to hold the crowds on that day but it believed additional seating capacity can be arranged.

Special instructions will be given each teacher in the Sunday schools not only to secure full attendance of their regular classes but to bring in new members on that day and to start the year with the largest membership rolls in the history of the churches.

The churches and their pastors co-operating in the movement are: Presbyterian, H. R. McFadyen, Methodist, R. S. Marshall, Baptist, E. S. Hutchinson, Episcopal, J. T. Love and the Christian church.

The movement is not in the nature of rivalry in the churches nor is it on a contest basis, but a co-operative movement to better Sunday school attendance in Cameron.

A successful way to attain the goal for that day is to begin now in the Sunday schools and increase the attendance gradually and not wait until the day set for the goal to be reached.

This whole movement has been set forward as a plan of cultivation and not to be attempted on temporary plans but is a constructive movement for the future good attendance in the Sunday schools.

Fifteen hundred is the goal. Let each church with their Sunday school workers start at once to build up the attendance and reach the goal on Sunday May 4.

J. M. RALSTON IN RACE FOR JUSTICE OF PEACE

ASKS RE-ELECTION TO OFFICE SUBJECT TO ACTION OF DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

J. M. Ralston has announced his candidacy for the office of Justice of the Peace of Precinct 1, subject to action of the Democratic Primary in July.

Mr. Ralston is serving his second term in this office and is submitting his candidacy on the good record he has made in this office.

Mr. Ralston is well known in the Precinct having lived here for many years, being at one time county and district attorney and a prominent member of the Cameron bar.

Mr. Ralston invites the attention of the voters to his candidacy and solicits their influence in the coming July primary.

He will see the people during the campaign and talk with them about his race. Anything his friends may do for him will be greatly appreciated.

WHY BANKS?

REVIEW

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Those who have been reading these lessons have found banks to be semi-public corporations, chartered, regulated, and examined by State or Nation, but owned by private stockholders.

J. H. Puelicher

We found that banks
We found deposits to be of two kinds—

1. Receive deposits.
2. Make loans.
1. Savings Deposits.
2. Commercial Deposits.

We found that interest is paid on Savings Deposits; that the people's savings loaned by banks to farmers, merchants, manufacturers, produce wages and profits, which make more savings.

We found that were it not for the savings of the past, there could not be capital with which to build schools, railroads, ships, telephone and telegraph lines, factories, and the many things which are a part of civilization.

We found that the banker pays the savings depositor interest for the use of his savings and that he loans these to business but charges business more interest than he pays the saver, so that he could pay his overhead expenses, absorb occasional losses and pay dividends.

We found that bank stock is sold in order to provide capital for the establishing of the bank; that a stockholder in a bank is compelled to pay, in case the bank should fail and the assets not be enough to pay depositors, an amount up to 100 per cent of his stock; that anyone who is able to buy and willing to assume the risk, may purchase bank stock when it is for sale; and that the banks of America are owned by many men and women scattered throughout the country, who have purchased bank stock.

We found that banks render in these ways essential economic services to their communities.

STRAIGHT TALKS

WITH AUNT EMMY

On Getting Good Investment Advice.

"It seems to me that your mother is making a grave mistake in giving $3,000 to set young Lang up in business," remarked Aunt Emmy, when Helen finished telling her of the wonderful plan Clarence Lang had for starting in business himself. "He is a likeable chap," Aunt Emmy continued, "and very pleasant at parties and such, but if he really were a good business man he wouldn't need his relatives or friends to set him up in business."

"Why not, Aunt Emmy?" queried Helen. "It doesn't take so much money, really, and he can get ahead so much faster. What's the use of being just a clerk if he has real ability?"

"That he has so much ability remains to be demonstrated," said Aunt Emmy. "If he were as competent as he has led you people to believe he is he would have no trouble getting himself financed by men who know the business he desires to venture into. There are any number of clever men who are willing to back ability and who will stand behind a man's achievements, financially, and take their share of the profit for doing it. Before your mother goes ahead she should consult her bank about making such a move."

"I don't see why, Aunt. The money is hers."

"Yes, but she did not earn it. She inherited it and I doubt if she has any real sense of its value. Her bankers know her financial situation and they can advise her."

"Well, I'll tell mother, but I don't think she will like it," said Helen.

The next day Helen's mother came to see Aunt Emmy.

"I took your advice, Emmy," she said, "and called on Mr. Allen at the bank and told him about what I wanted to do for Clarence. Mr. Allen made a lot of things clear to me. First of all he showed me that I am not rich enough to take unnecessary chances. He said practically what you told Helen—that an able man can get business backing in a strictly business way and he pointed out that my first duty was to my own home, and that I must consider those girls of mine before anyone else. Of course, that Clarence might not succeed never entered my head. But Mr. Allen pointed out that possibility. There are so many angles to a new business that I really didn't know about. Mr. Allen was so nice about it. He asked me to come in again whenever I was puzzled about money affairs."

"Well, don't forget that next time you want to use any of your capital. If more people would go to their banks for advice there would be far less money troubles in the world," advised Aunt Emmy.—ANNE B. AYNES.

RED PEPPER HEAT
STOPS BACKACHE

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Easter Chimes

By Charles Nevers Holmes
in Living Church

RING out, O chimes of Easter Morn!
The shadows from the tomb are gone,
His heavy stone is rolled away,
Proclaim Christ's resurrection day!

Ring out, O bells, while we forget
The worldly things which vex and fret,
Whilst we acclaim the Christ that bled,
Our Saviour risen from the dead!

Ring out, ring out, with blithesome voice,
Be jubilant, rejoice! Rejoice!
And, far and near, announce to men
That Jesus Christ now lives again.

Ring out, O joyful, joyous chimes!
Proclaim the advent of good times;
Dispel forever fear and doubt—
Ring out, O Easter bells, ring out!

wet, slippery mud, and even more difficulty, after they had turned over the car and had taken out the two persons pinned underneath, in carrying them up to the road.

Joan was waiting at the top of the hill. "Anyone hurt very badly?" she inquired with anxiety.

"The lady's pretty badly cut, but it doesn't look like anything serious," she was told.

The two figures were placed on stretchers and lifted into the ambulance. When Joan saw their faces she gasped, and herself got into the car to drive to the hospital.

She was sitting by a little white iron bed rubbing the pulses of a rather light-complexioned young man lying unconscious under the white sheets, when suddenly he opened his eyes. He stared at her for several minutes in half recognition; then his eyes opened wide like two large saucers. "Joan, Joan, dear, oh, I'm so glad you're here." He closed his eyes again. Joan smoothed his pillow and leaned over tenderly to kiss his white forehead.

"Oh, Jack, don't, don't go to sleep again," she coaxed. He opened his eyes and smiled happily.

"I want to, dear, so you will kiss me again. You are affectionate, aren't you? That—that's why I wrote that miserable note. I was afraid that you were like ice, and that you didn't really love me." His voice became weaker, and his eyelids slowly closed. But on his lips the smile remained.

Several weeks later little Elsie ran eagerly down the steps of the Martin home. "Oh, I like Miss Martin. I like Miss Martin!" she was saying, and in her mind she was going over the scene of the last five minutes. Joan had taken her lovingly in her arms. "Dear, you must keep up your music, even if I can't teach you any more. And if you ever come to Crawford, you must look up Mrs. Jack Reeves. Mrs. Jack Reeves, you won't forget? Because that will be my name after tomorrow." And Elsie thought she would never forget how very beautiful she looked when she said it.

"ANTI BOLL WEEVIL"

Littlefield Cotton Land

$30 Per Acre

THE FAMOUS YELLOW HOUSE RANCH, formerly owned by the late Major Littlefield of Austin, Texas, and located on the South Plains of Texas, in the Lubbock section, is on the market in tracts of 177.1 acres, known as a labor of land. The land that we are now offering for sale at $30 per acre is located from 5 to 8 miles of the fast growing town of Littlefield, that has a good eleven-grade high school, churches, cotton gins, late Loam Cotton Land with a cash payment of bank, etc., and on the main line of the Santa Fe Railroad from the Gulf to California.

You can buy a 177-acre tract of this fine Chocoma 20 per cent and the balance in easy payments over a period of 15 years at 6 per cent interest, with all notes payable on or before. This low price and liberal terms makes it possible for a man of small means to BUY AND PAY FOR A HOME in a section that is FREE FROM THE BOLL WEEVIL and where some farmers HAVE PAID FOR THEIR LAND WITH ONE YEAR'S CROPS. To prove to you that this is a Cotton country we offer the following data taken from the Government Cotton Statistics:

The South Plains Cotton Crop in 1909 was 9,240 bales, in 1920 123,000 bales, and 142,638 bales for 1923, valued at more than $26,000,000. For the crop year of 1919 Lubbock County more than doubled Ellis County in the per acre production of Cotton and just about doubled the combined average production of Williamson, Bell, Collin, McLennan and Ellis, five of the leading Cotton Counties of Texas, where land sells from $100 to $250 per acre.

The per acre average for ten leading varieties grown on the State Experimental Farm, located near Lubbock, for the past ten years has been 348.87 pounds of lint cotton, or in round numbers 3-5 of a bale per acre—or more than THREE times the State average for the same time.

If you believe the above figures, YOU ARE BOUND TO KNOW $30.00 LAND IN THAT SECTION WILL DOUBLE IN VALUE IN A SHORT TIME. And it is a duty that you owe yourself and family to investigate this matter and buy while you can get a choice location, this low price and liberal terms of payment.

We expect to have buyers leaving Cameron every two weeks to inspect our lands and will be glad to have you join us any time you can make the trip. Further information will gladly be furnished by

SCHOOL DAYS.

My wish is not to go to school;
But stay at home each day,
And get out in the hay field
And play ball in the hay.
I'd go to town for mother
And read aloud to aunt,
But I have to go to school
Because I hate to say, "I can't."
The first thing is arithmetic
Mr. Sterling knows the rules,
And tries to teach this subject
To three grades in the school.
Miss Jackson teaches geography
About countries near and far,
And I wonder how she learns so much
Without being a brilliant star.
Mr. Newton teaches us history,
We learn about battles too,
And how some great men surrend-
ed,
And how some fought battles thru
Miss Olive teaches reading, and
Good work we have each day,
For on Fridays we have stories
If that is what we say.
Then comes our grammar class,
To learn the parts of speech,
To learn about those gerunds
And participles each.
Mrs. Robbins is our teacher
And a good one at that
But we must make good grades
Or she will fail us flat.
The last thing in the evening
Comes writing, I must say,
And in walks Miss Gibson
And teaches the correct way.
Sometimes I wish we didn't have
A thing such as a school.
So I could have a good time,
And not worry over rules.
—IRENE SHIRLEY.

OUR AMUSEMENTS.

Just as the seasons come and go so seasons of game follow each other in rapid succession. With the coming of spring everyone likes to be outdoors and thus outdoor games are just now attractive.
Of course the boys are all playing base ball and this game is in the air even down to the first grade.

The smaller girls jump ropes and play "chasing the fox," "Doctor, Doctor," and such games are favorites with them. The older girls have the "Mumblepep" malady. Every group you see is playing this old and beloved game.

APRIL.

The first of April some do say
From ancient times is All Fools
Dad.
But why they choose to call it so,
Not I nor they themselves do know.
'Tis then the noisy winds are still,
For April's coming up the hill;
And she's bringing Spring with her,
The time to lay aside our furs;
The time when birds begin their songs,
The time when showers come along
When sudden sunshine and a sky of blue
Pass April's greetings on to you.
Again we hear the black birds sing,
And butterflies are on the wing;
The English sparrows chirp and
The brooks have awakened from their sleep,
And every thing both for and near
Is telling us that April's here.

REPORT OF SCOUT TROOP NO. 3.

Troop number 3 met at the court house with Troop 1 last Friday evening and together they hiked to Little Bear Creek. As the boys were loaded down with canteens and have-sacks they did not have any trotting, known as "double time."
As they neared the creek they left the road to find a good place for a fire. Troop number 1's fire was blazing first but soon both were lighting up the woods. Wood was gathered and then the haveosacks were emptied and everyone given a fair chance at the bread, weenies, cheese, and the other things that had been brought.
After this the roll was called and only one member was absent. Then came the collection of five cents from each member which is to be held in the treasury for future use. Old and new business was discussed and the name, 'coy and color of neckerchief was decided upon.

John Henderson who was in care of the troops, asked that the Scouts eat their suppers at home and that two members be appointed to supply water for the entire troop.

FLOWERS OF GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

Although the Grammar school has no flowers in the yard, we have beautiful flowers and ferns in our rooms. At times when flowers bloom profusely in the yards of Cameron, the school rooms have an abundance of cut flowers and during the cold winter months the rooms are beautiful with pot plants of every kind.

We are proud of the ones we have and enjoy them very much but we would be glad indeed if we had even more for we are inclined to do much better work and we can develop a better character with beautiful flowers around us.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night,
your cold or catarrh is gone.
Don't stay stuffed-up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal
the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

If the experts know what is what in the automobile world--riding in automobiles of the following description:

Engineers Forecast: Lighter and more Powerful motors which will cost less and give more comfort.

One of the leading automobile engineers of the county—Mr. Charles F. Kettering, head of the General Motors Research Corporation has the following to say:

"Lighter, more powerful and comfortable cars, that will cost less, run further without adjustment, and will be easy to handle, are being forecast by automotive engineers."

(ESSEX-SIX is already on the market.)

'Reduction of the weight also means less wear on the tires and a consequent lower cost for replacements
—A vital consideration with the average car owner.

(The ESSEX again.)

The power to weight ratio of the average car now is in the neighborhood of one to fifty—in other words, a sixty horse power engine represents the average power plant for a car of 3,000 pounds gross weight.

But the famous 122 inch racing cars of 1923 weigh only a little over fifteen pounds per horse power This ratio may be equaled in stock cars in a few years says
Mr. Kettering.

(The ESSEX has gotten along very well considering, the reduction in weight and the new powerful Six cylinder motor.)

In almost every paragraph of Mr. Kettering's statement in describing the future car of America, he unintentionally described the New Essex Six now on display in our store.

April 15, 1924.

To the People of Cameron:

After two years in the office of Mayor of the City of Cameron I have come as best I can a good layman.

In the rank and file of citizens to be in the land down the burdens of this office I am conscious of having done my duty as I saw it at all times. At no time have I shirked responsibility. My mistakes have been many. We cannot rise above human limitations. But on the whole the administration has been successful and I feel that some worthy accomplishments are traceable to the service I rendered while in office.

I deeply appreciate the co-operation of the people during these two years and I pledge my co-operation in every way with the incoming administration.

The past is history. We must look to the future. At no time in the history of the city has the call to duty been more plain than now. The future challenges us and the fortunes of our community will depend on how we meet that responsibility. It is given to few to be called to places of responsibility but every man has the responsibility of citizenship to make or mar.

I stand ready for the yoke and I call upon the people everywhere to come under in a great unity of purpose—and that purpose to sacrifice for our common welfare.

Yours very truly,
J. B. WHITE.

New City Officers Are Sworn In

ing which time I have labored for the interests of the people I lay down the burdens of office and take my place. It was explained, will not teach here next year, thus removing obstacles in the path of both Mr. Kidd and Mr. Wallace, the latter having resigned from the board in 1922.

The other members of the board are A. N. Green, J. C. Martin and B. P. Atkinson. The terms of these three expire next April.

Dr. G. E. Sutton was re-appointed sanitary officer and Monta Thomas was re-appointed fire chief.

C. R. Phillips at his own request has retired from the chairmanship of the street committee and Geo. T. Graves has been made chairman. Mr. Phillips however is still a member of the committee but is not chairman.

H. M. Hefley was re-elected mayor pro-tem, a place he has held for a number of years.

The following committees were appointed by Mayor Davis:

Street—Geo. T. Graves, C. R. Phillips and H. M. Hefley.

Finance—O. M. Smith, H. M. Hefley and Geo. T. Graves.

Fire and Water—C. R. Phillips, Geo. T. Graves and W. O. Triggs.

Purchasing—W. O. Triggs, O. M. Smith and H. M. Hefley.

Taxation—H. M. Hefley, W. O. Triggs and C. R. Phillips.

Police—W. O. Triggs, H. M. Hefley and Geo. T. Graves.

Petitions and Complaints—H. M. Hefley, O. M. Smith and C. R. Phillips.

Ordinances—O. M. Smith, H. M. Hefley and W. O. Triggs.

Sanitary—Geo. T. Graves, O. M. Smith and W. O. Triggs.

Miss Kathleen Kelso has returned to her school duties in the Presbyterian Home and School at Piles Valley after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kelso, at Maysfield.

Rev. H. R. McFadyen and John B. McLane, pastor and Elder, First Presbyterian church, left Tuesday for Gatesville to attend the spring meeting of Presbytery.

Reception Committee Named To Meet Governor

Gov. Pat M. Neff, will speak on State and National issues to the people of Milam county at the court house on Saturday afternoon, April 19th, at 2:30 p. m. Sometime ago the Cameron Commercial Club extended an invitation to the Governor to deliver a speech in Cameron, and he now comes in response to that invitation.

Governor Neff will arrive on the S. A. & A. P. from Waco Saturday morning and will be met by the reception committee and escorted to the Auditorium Hotel, where he will rest and receive his friends until the time set for the address. From Cameron he will be escorted to Temple by a delegation of Temple citizens and will speak at that place Saturday night. Mayor Davis has ordered the Cameron Municipal Band to play for the occasion and a band concert will be rendered on the court house lawn from 2 until 2:30.

Hon. T. S. Henderson will introduce the speaker.

This is one of a series of addresses which the Governor is delivering throughout the State in his campaign for law enforcement and for an un-instructed delegation to the National Democratic Convention.

The Governor is one of the most eloquent speakers in the State of Texas and it will be a pleasure to hear him. Cameron and Milam county extend their greetings to our Governor.

Chairman E. V. Ferguson of the Entertainment Committee of the Commercial Club has appointed the following members of the Reception Committee:

Mr. and Mrs. Judd Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hefley, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Kidd, Judge and Mrs. John Watson, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Denson, C. W. Bradberry.

Confederate Veterans Name Reunion Delegates

Persuant to a call by the Adjutant General the Milam County Confederate Veterans of Camp Ben McCulloch met in the County Court room in Cameron, Monday April 14, 1924, at 2:30 p. m.

Present: Dr. J. M. Dollar, Ed. F. English, Esq., M. W. Mitchell, A. S. Mosley, A. J. McLaze, L. W. Harris, Veteran Maize.

Visitors: Mrs. Ed. F. English, W. A. Morrison and Jeff Kemp.

By request of the Commander, Ed. F. English called the Camp to order and announced that the object of the meeting was to reorganize, elect officers for the ensuing year and elect two delegates to the General Confederate Reunion to be held in Memphis, Tenn., June 3-6 of this year.

By motion of Judge English, M. W. Mitchell was elected Camp Commander and L. W. Harris Adjutant. They were immediately installed in office for a term of one year.

By invitation W. A. Morrison, Esq., addressed the Camp and in elegant language encouraged us to keep up our organization as long as there are two of us living; offering to pay our dues. Stating that he would consider it a privilege of honor to be permitted to pay them. Our County Judge Jeff Kemp, made a short speech endorsing all Mr. Morrison had said, offering his co-operation.

SHERIFF RAIDS POKER GAME AND ARRESTS 14

"RURAL MONTE CARLO" BROKEN UP BY SHERIFF AND DEPUTY IN EARLY MORNING.

Sunday morning at 2 a. m. Sheriff Drue S. Rogers and Deputy N. O. Kennedy disturbed the quiet but nevertheless earnest proceedings of a poker game several miles from the city.

Fourteen men were taken under arrest and will be charged with gaming or sweating the game.

The officers learned of the "Rural Monte Carlo" and went out early Sunday morning to break up the gambling. The house being used was a small shanty in the woods and very well concealed.

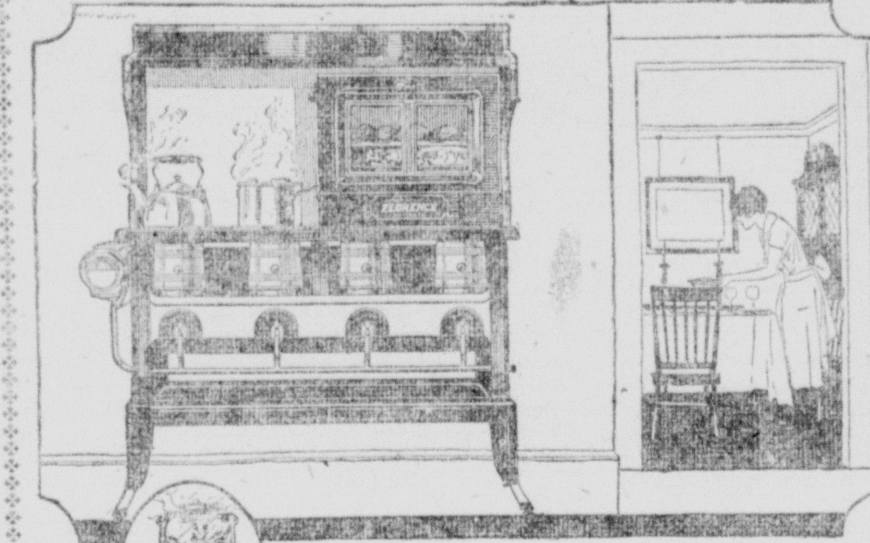

The officers surrounded the place and watched the game for a few minutes.

utes. Sheriff Rogers walked to an open window and thrust his head gently through speaking softly to one of the men in the game, calling him by name. So surprised were the gamblers that for a moment they sat dumfounded but finally two broke away and ran to another part of the house and got in bed. Deputy N. O. Kennedy when the stampede came went to the front and found the men, preventing escape.

During the administration of Sheriff Rogers gambling has been made an exceedingly difficult practice and the records will show a number of raids unequalled by any. Also the number of fines for these and other similar offenses during the period of his incumbence will break all previous records.

It is said that so vigilant has been this sheriff and his deputies that the gamblers must resort to every possible hiding place in the rural districts, the city becoming untenable for the card players.

FLORENCE Oil Stoves & Ranges

Don't feed your money to the stove

Keeping a range going all day long with expensive coal or wood is just feeding your money to the stove.

Contrast with this the Florence Oil Cook Stove which is lighted only when actually in use and which burns kerosene—the cheapest fuel.

The hot blue flame, clean and steady, is close up under the cooking. Little of the heat is wasted.

A Florence Oil Stove stands ready for use in this store. Come in and experiment yourself with this most economical stove.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

On the occasion of Tuesday afternoon was the birthday party given by Mrs. George Mode to the birthday anniversaries of two small daughters, Katharine aged seven and Ruth aged five. Birthdays came this week and celebration of the anniversaries gave about fifty little guests, several of their mothers an afternoon of pleasure long to be remembered with delight.

Baskets of blue bonnets and spring hats were placed on tables about the room and two birthday cakes were served. The guests brought little gifts to gladden the hearts of the young and each guest was made happy by the gift of baskets of miniature Easter eggs.

Assisted by Mesdames W. L. Wilkerson and Giles L. Avriett the hostess and cream cones and cake to the folks after a season spent playing the games so dear to the hearts of childhood.

The symbols of good luck found in the cakes were awarded as follows: Heart, Henriem Hefley. Thimble, Wynnell Kidd. Ring, Ruth Mode.

Button, Woodrow Gavenda. Anchor, Zora Clark Wilkerson. Pocket, Helen Ryan.

Time, Leonard Blaylock.

At the conclusion of a round of the game the little guests expressed their gratitude to Mrs. Mode and wished the two honorees many happy returns of their birth days.

MRS. H. F. SMITH ENTERTAINS.

An outstanding event of the week was the 42 party given by Mrs. H. F. Smith, Jr., at her new apartment on East Twenty-third street last Friday afternoon.

The home was charmingly decorated in spring blossoms of lavender and yellow; vases and baskets filled with Banksia roses, wisteria and lilies were in evidence. Eight tables of players were grouped around tables attractively decorated in lavender and yellow with harmonizing accessories daintily arranged.

Beautiful crepe paper baskets with ribbons in the contrasting hue centered each table and as final favors fell to Mesdames Buck Lewis, Buck Bonds, Vernon McIntyre, T. J. Denison, Claude Triggs, Charlie Frank Green, Leland Green and Dan Tyson.

Lavender ices and yellow cakes were so attractively served as to call forth many expressions of admiration from the favored guests.

Plate favors were unique sun bonnet faces with bonnets in the favored hues.

CLASS PARTY.

Elbert O'Neal was host to his classmates on Friday evening, the Seniors of the Yoe High School were the honorees.

Miss Isla Reid and Mr. Keeling of the Yoe High faculty chaperoned.

The hours passed pleasantly with conversation, music and dancing and brick cream and cake featuring the class colors were served.

DR. AND MRS. TOM DENSON ENTERTAIN.

Chaperoned by Misses Pitts and Hightower a group of Cameron-Rosebud Society folks gathered on the spacious lawn of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Denson on Monday evening to entertain the boys from Allen Academy, Bryan, who had come over for a ball game with the Yoe High team that afternoon. Cream and cake were served near the close of a delightful evening replete with social pleasure.

42 PARTY.

The spring motif was charmingly expressed in the decorations and accessories for the 42 party given on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. H. G. Patton for the Tuesday Club in the parlors of Mrs. W. H. Henley. Lavender, pink and yellow flowers made the rooms attractive and there were two lavender, two yellow and two pink tables with favors and table appointments conforming to chosen motif. At the conclusion of the games crepe luncheon sets in the same tins were placed and a two course luncheon daintily and attractively served, plate favors being spring sun bonnet maidens. Plate favors were picnic bonnets in the chosen colors attractively wrapped and tied with satin ribbons in the favored tints of pink, yellow and lavender.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

The veterans of Ben McCulloch Camp met at the court house on Monday afternoon.

Hon. W. A. Morrison delivered an inspirational address.

Dr. J. M. Dollar and Mr. L. W. Harris with D. Kemp of Houston, Judge Ed. F. English and M. W. Mitchell as alternates were chosen to represent Ben McCulloch Camp of Cameron at the Memphis Confederate Reunion.

On Wednesday the Lions Club held their weekly luncheon at the Bigbee House. About forty members enjoyed the luncheon which was served in Mrs. Bigbee's most expert style.

Claud Triggs was toastmaster. Several inspiring speeches were elicited from the membership.

Four new members were elected.

An invitation to every child under twelve years of age in Cameron has been extended to enjoy an Easter egg hunt in the City Park at 4 p. m. Friday, given by the Cameron Lions Club.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

On Wednesday April 16, 1924, Thomas Jefferson White reached the sixth milestone on his life's journey and to celebrate the event his mother gave him a birthday party on her lawn, inviting about forty of his little friends to enjoy the happy occasion with him. The thoughtful generosity of his many discriminating friends made Tommy the recipient of many appropriate gifts but the fullness of joy was reached when he opened a package from his grandmother Mrs. W. A. White of Nixon, Texas, and found therein a complete cowboy suit with lariat and hat.

Tommy's Sunday school teacher Mrs. W. E. Kuehl and Mesdames H. C. Keith, W. L. Wilkerson, Luie Turner, J. H. Edwards and Misses Marie Bryant and Maude Walston assisted Mrs. White in hostess duties.

Games were played and fairy stories were told until the time arrived for the cutting of the birthday cake which was wreathed with pink roses and bore six lighted candles. While Tommy blew out the candles the children expressed their wishes that he might enjoy many happy returns of his birthday. The cake was cut and sterling silver emblems were found by the following:

Ring—Fatsy McGregor.
Thimble, John Evans.
Wishbone—Alice Cox of Shreveport, La.

Button—Tommy White.
Ice cream cones and cake were enjoyed and then an Easter egg hunt. Each child was given a tiny basket and was made happy by the finding of many bright hued eggs that the Easter rabbits had left on the lawn.

CARRIE YOE LITERARY SOCIETY PICNIC.

The Carrie Yoe Club of girls went on a picnic Tuesday afternoon. We went to the Wilson-Ledbetter Park. After playing many games and telling jokes we went to the cats.

At the brook of creek some went wading. It was fun to watch the adventurous waders as they explored the six-inch stream. Miss Frank Duke Hightower and Miss Jolly Blanche Pitts keep the girls laughing at their funny pranks.

The delightful lunch consisted of sandwiches, fruit and cakes.

We had a jolly high time because of Miss Hightower and Miss Jolly Blanche Pitts and Lexie Hilton.

MRS. W. H. ATKINSON.

Mrs. W. H. Atkinson, nee Seppie Anderson, a former Cameron woman, died at her home in Florence Tuesday, April 15, 1924.

Mrs. Atkinson was a daughter of Rev. T. M. Anderson, a pioneer Baptist minister in Milam county. She lived in Cameron for many years, prior to her removal to Killeen and later to Florence where her death occurred, following a prolonged illness.

Two of her nieces, Mrs. S. M. Burns and Mrs. George H. McGehee of this city were with her for several days before the end. These two ladies and O. L. Kidd, S. M. Burns, T. M. Randolph, Mrs. Joe Denson, Misses Alice McGehee and Mary Randolph, grandnephews and nieces, attended the funeral which was held Wednesday morning in Florence.

An Easter Message of Hope

"CHRIST is risen!" is the regular salutation all over eastern Christendom on Easter Sunday morning. It is the re-echo of the wonder cry of the first Christians as the realization at last forced itself upon them that the impossible had happened; Christ is risen! They had found it such a bitter thing to lay their beloved Master dead in the grave. Death always is bitter, usually almost impossible to bear up against.

Of His death the disciples were certain; of their grief there could be no doubt. Every one of us who owns a little plot of holy ground, consecrated to us by what we could see through tears of an open grave, of falling clouds of earth going to earth, can sympathize with them. We know what the blackness of that darkness is, from whence there comes no response to our cry.

"Christ is risen!" The message came on the first day of the week, with the risen Savior Himself as its proof. Sorrow fled, the blackness of the grave was changed into brightness of joy unspeakable; "Christ is risen!" The grave had not imprisoned Him! Death had not conquered Him! His own pierced body was there again, endued with thrilling life once more. Ask His mother. She knows her Son. In the ecstasy of love, too full of joy even to wonder, hear her answer—"He is risen, indeed!"

Ay, Christ is risen! And the grave has not hurt Him. Nay, He is the more glorious for it! His body is now superior to time and space, or to any of their laws; just as the Easter lily is superior to the bulb you hid in the ground; or, as the waving corn field is better than the bare grain in the sack.

And the loved ones, even the little ones we laid with such sorrow in the grave, they, too, will rise in like manner, all the better; ay, ever so much better for the death which makes the resurrection possible! Just as we, too, taken apart, bit by bit, by the tender alchemy of the grave, as the watchmaker takes apart a watch, shall be put together again, purified, glorified, to go on forever, and forevermore.

Easter Day

By Mary Graham Bonner

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE churches are filled with flowers. Many people are wearing flowers.

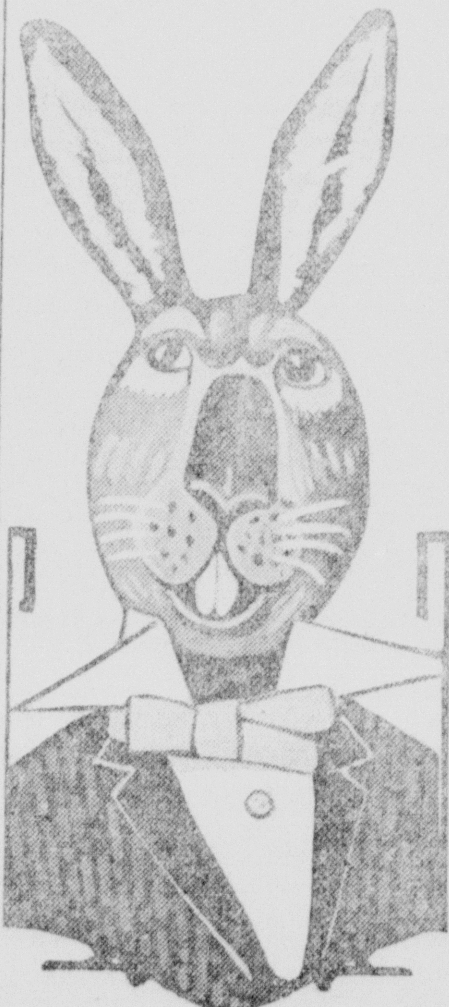

The church bells are ringing, people are hurrying to church in a new, vigorous, glad spirit. The choirs are singing. The congregations sing, too.

"Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia!" The air still holds some of the winter's chill within it, but there is, too, the warmth of spring to be felt.

Everyone feels it. Everyone is smiling, happy, gay.

They are wishing each other "A Happy Easter."

Children have been given gay Easter eggs and they have been given chocolate bunnies with sweet chocolate expressions on their little chocolate faces; even their ears are alert in their chocolate fashion.

New clothes are being worn. Or old ones are spruced up. There is new life, new courage, new joyousness in the air.

"Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia!"

Risen With Christ

It is not possible to be risen with Christ and yet remain on the level of those who neither know nor serve Him.

DISTRICT COURT NEWS.

The case of the State of Texas vs. Gabriel Horack, charged with manufacturing intoxicating liquor was called for trial Monday and the Jury brought in a verdict Tuesday finding the defendant guilty, and assessing his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for a term of one year. The defendant was first arrested by ex-sheriff L. L. Blaylock and Constable Chas. Sens and was tried and convicted and given 18 months in the penitentiary, he appealed his case to the higher courts and same was reversed and remanded for another trial.

The case of the State vs. Jim Davis was continued on account of the defendant being sick and unable to attend court.

The case of the State of Texas vs. Dock Glover charged with murder is set for April 22nd, Tuesday, and a venire of 100 men is summoned to appear on said date from which to select a jury to try this case. All excuses must be delivered in person as the judge cannot excuse any jurymen in this kind of case.

Sam W. Law, Cameron, Texas, Roy Hillyer, Rockdale, Texas, and H. H. Camp, San Gabriel, Texas have been selected to serve as Jury Commissioners to select a Grand Jury and Petit Juries and Special Verdicts for the May term of the District Court.

P. J. Huebner, who has been visiting in California, returned Thursday accompanied by his sister Mrs. Harold W. Kincher and little son Harold, Jr., of Redlands, California.

Glorious Gospel of Easter Day

By Rev. Stephen Paulson
in Gilt

And when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had brought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint Him. Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risen; He is not here. Behold the place where they laid Him.—Mark 16:1-8.

THE Sabbath came and went over the grave of its Lord. Silence reigned in Joseph's garden, broken only by the mailed sentinels who chatted and laughed by the sealed sepulcher. We do not know what the disciples did on the Sabbath day. Probably they spent the day in close retirement in some upper room. Their thoughts were nailed to that Cross on Calvary, and their spirits were under the heavy pall of that tragedy of Good Friday.

We can never understand the utter misery and desolation of those hours between Christ's death and His Resurrection. Our faith rests on the centuries; and when we read of the Crucifixion we have in mind the glory of Easter morning. But to the disciples, all their hopes had been shattered, and all their plans frustrated, and all their love buried in Joseph's tomb. A resurrection did not enter into their thoughts at all, and therefore their testimony is the more valuable. True, they had heard Jesus say that He would rise again, but they had interpreted that in a sort of future and symbolic sense.

Before dawn, the women mentioned in our text, perhaps with some others, started for the sepulcher bearing their spices and ointments with which they expected to finish the embalming of the blessed body of their Lord. A resurrection had no place in their thoughts. They came to minister to the dead, not to greet the living. Their one great concern was: Who would help them to roll away the stone which sealed the tomb, and which was too great for their united strength? As they draw near they see that the stone is rolled away, and so little did they think of a resurrection, that the open tomb brought them only perplexity and grief.

The Gospels were not written for the curious, but for the devout. They are most silent therefore, where myth and legend would be most garrulous. Here we are told nothing of the wondrous Resurrection. Did He awake alone? Or was He attended by the hierarchy of heaven? We are told only what concerns mankind, viz., the sufficient manifestation of Jesus to His people of His Resurrection.

We can reconstruct something of the events of that first Easter morning from the Gospel accounts. First the women come and find the tomb empty. Mary Magdalene immediately runs back to the city and tells Peter and John about it. They rush out to the garden of Joseph, John, the younger man, taking the lead. The women have left. Peter enters the tomb and sees the linen clothes which had covered the body of Jesus, and there begins to dawn upon them something of the meaning of the words of Jesus, "On the third day I shall rise again."

Mary comes back and Peter and John have gone, and no one is there to explain what has taken place; so she stands by the sepulcher and pours out her distress in tears.

Now comes the first revelation of the risen Christ. "Mary," He says, in the well-known voice of love and tenderness, and in a moment all her sorrow is turned into joy. It is always so when the risen Christ comes into a life. The living Christ is the world's great joy-bringer. Without Him, our thoughts can only be thoughts of death. With Him we enter into the conception of the larger life, of which this is only the outer court.

Life! Death! They seem to be the very antipodes of thought. We have come to look upon them as mutually exclusive, but Jesus has taught us that out of life death is to arise.

The Resurrection of Jesus is the anchor of our Christian faith. We live in a day when men seek positive grounds of thought and action, and the enduring power of the Resurrection is not a sentiment but a fact. A sentiment has its day. Phases of mere feeling pass rapidly over the generations of men, like clouds over our heads, but the fact of the Risen Christ remains. In the strength of that certainty Paul went forth to his great missionary labors. In the strength of that, Peter went unafraid to his own crucifixion. In the strength of that, the soldiers of Christ in all ages have stood fast in the faith, quit themselves like men, and endured unto the end.

The Easter Gospel is the Gospel of all comfort. "If Christ be not risen then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain." So says St. Paul, and then comes his triumphant shout of certainty: "But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept." That is the Gospel of comfort which this world of sorrow and death needs so much. That is the glad and glorious Gospel of Easter Day. Today we seek, not a dead Christ, but a living one, and then, may it soon be our bliss to see the Risen Savior face to face, as did Mary on that very first Easter morning.

Easter Lilies

By Mabel W. Phillips

IN THE vast aisles of His temple, Where a hundred soft lights glow, Pouring through the stained-glass windows,

Over lilies pure as snow; He is walking midst the silence, Listening blossoms bow their heads To His voice so low and gentle That a benediction sheds.

In the dim aisles of His temple, When the lights have ceased to glow, He still lingers midst the fragrance, Gently pacing to and fro; Hark! the anthem of the angels, Wakes the dawn, for Christ is near; Vibrant in each tender flower, For the night is left of fear.

In the hushed aisles of His temple, As the organ music grows, He is standing midst the lilies, See the light that o'er them flows? Safe they rest upon His bosom, Endless through eternity, Stopping with the lamb, head gently Even thus He stoops to me.

Easter Brings Message of Assurance

ARCHEOLOGISTS exploring the 3,400-year-old tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen are impressed with the evidences of the ancient ruler's belief in immortality. Everything in the sepulcher proclaims his expectation of a future life. Ancient Egypt believed as firmly as does modern Christendom that for the soul there is no death.

Indeed, the memory of man runneth not back to the time when he did not look forward to a hereafter and express his belief in some way. This belief, apparently, is inherent in human consciousness, a characteristic of all the ages of the race.

The doctrine of the resurrection is not new. The pagan before the Christian era glimpsed the truth. Nature proclaimed it to him in the bursting of the buds and the song of the birds in the springtime. In the seasons he read a confirmation of his belief.

But the Christian, fortunately, has something more than the pleasing symbols of nature to fortify and strengthen his belief in immortality. The materialist may read his fate in the processes of the natural world, but the Christian finds his assurance in the well-authenticated, personally conveyed message from the Creator Himself.

Before Christ men merely speculated on the future, prompted by their beliefs and wishes. When He broke the bonds of death and became "the first fruits of them that slept," He threw a flood of light upon the gates of eternity that forever solved the mystery and illumined the way to the future for all mankind.

Easter, the anniversary of the resurrection of the Son of God, brings a message of assurance and victory to every soul. It cheers with the proclamation that all are citizens of the eternal. It enables men to look across the grave and hurl defiance at death. With the proper understanding of this divine message, the capability of men becomes unlimited, for they know that this life is only the beginning.

Without the courage that this day inspires, life would not be worth the living.

The Message of Easter

By Rachel Ann Neiswander

LIFE is a gift eternal, How do I know 'tis so? Because I have planted a tiny seed, Then watched a flower grow. I have seen the leaves come tumbling down.

Then spring, and a budding tree, Oh, God's outdoors so big and wide, Has told its secrets to me.

Now at this glad Easter When the world is bursting with song,

Let us face life with high endeavor, Let us bury the old year's wrong, Let us take from it only the lessons, The good that comes sifting through. Let us cherish the hope that is given And cling to the paths that are true.

Christian Festival of Easter

THE Christian festival of Easter was grafted onto the pagan feast which ushered in the spring, and so some of our customs belong to one era and some to another.

Haven't you often wondered what eggs had to do with the Crucifixion of Christ? As a matter of fact, there is no connection except an incidental one between the two. In pre-Christian days folks celebrated the renewal of spring and sunshine at the time of year when Easter now comes, and the egg, with its suggestion of new life, was the most natural symbol in the world. Christianity consecrated the idea, as it were, by coloring the eggs red as a reminder of the blood spilt on the cross—a custom which survives in France to this day.

The hot cross bun is another curious blend of heathen superstition and Christian symbolism. Many centuries before Christ little round loaves were baked and marked with a cross; some were even discovered in the ruins of Herculaneum, one of the ancient Italian cities which was buried by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius and afterwards uncovered and explored. Some say that these cakes were sacrificed and offered as an act of worship to the heathen gods of the day, particularly to the moon, called the queen of heaven.

Others assert that the cooks of that day were as practical as the toffee-maker of ours, who mark the toffee into small squares, so that it will break up more easily when cold.

Then came the Christians, who saw in this bread marked with their own sacred symbol a fit association with Easter. They made their Good Friday cakes from dough first used for the Host, and the buns were blessed by the priest and given out at the end of service in church. Worshipers reverently kissed the cross before eating the symbols, and believed that the eating of one would keep them from harm until next Easter.

For the same reason it used to be customary to hang a bun up in a house to bring good luck, just as the horse-shoe is set over a doorway. In particular it was supposed to guard the house from fire—a real menace in the days when houses were of wood and thatched with straw and fire engines almost unknown.

Were you born on Good Friday? Legend has it that anyone so blessed possesses the gift of second sight. And if you have sufficient fortitude to turn vegetarian just for Easter Sunday, an old superstition promises you good health for a twelvemonth. It seems a small price for so long a benefit, doesn't it?

Another way of insuring good health, which is much more drastic, but was often practiced in olden days by spartan maidens, was to leave a linen cloth out in a field all night, so that it became soaked with the cold spring dew. Then they washed themselves all over with the clear, chilly moisture.

Another quaint superstition is the rather ridiculous custom of lifting or heaving, which is still practiced in some parts of the country. On Easter Monday the men lift the women, and on Easter Tuesday the women lift or heave the men. The process is performed by two lusty men or women joining their hands across each other's wrists, then, making the person to be heaved sit down on their arms, they lift him up aloft two or three times and often carry him several yards along a street. In other parts the men claim the privilege of taking off the women's shoes on Eastern Monday, and the next day the women retaliate.

Her Basket of Easter Eggs

Colored Easter eggs continue to play an important part in the celebration of the day. The colored eggs, packed in a dainty colored basket, appeal to the kiddies.

J. F. WINGO.

J. F. Wingo, who was for many more than forty years a substantial resident and farmer of Milam county, died at his home in Fort Worth last week and his remains were brought to Cameron for interment Saturday afternoon, April 12, 1924.

A large company of relatives and friends met the funeral party at the Santa Fe Station and the body was carried to Little River Church, where Rev. Glenn Flinn of Marlin, a close friend of deceased, conducted the service.

Hugh McKinney, Carl Black, Commodore Anderson, Rodney Anderson, Will Black, Louis Mitchell, Phillip Love, James Allday, E. B. Yeager, John Watson and Jeff Kemp were active and honorary pall bearers.

These were old friends and neighbors who had known and loved Mr. Wingo before his removal to Fort Worth about two years ago.

Mr. Wingo was a Confederate Veteran, a Mason and a Methodist, and was held in esteem by all who knew him.

Afternoon Frock of Two Materials

Many beautiful printed crepes and other silks have arrived for spring and they seem always at their best when they are made up with plain fabrics. Such a combination is shown in the handsome afternoon frock pictured, of plain crepe, with bands of figured crepe on the sleeves and body and a deep emplacement on the skirt.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

The Ideal Radio Set for Hikers

Henry Farkouh, a Brooklyn amateur, is the designer and builder of a novel radio set that should prove ideal for the hiker. It is a three-tube receiver, operating on small batteries and is complete in all details. The instruments are fastened to a canvas web belt, and each tube has its own rheostat; a potentiometer is also provided. The set has sufficient power to operate a loud speaker, and it is said that stations as far away as Chicago have been heard on it. The antenna consists of fine wire sewn between two canvas sheets so that it may be carried under the shirt, or in a pocket.

Monkey's Bites Test Money

Owing to the spread of counterfeit coins in Siam, monkeys are being employed in the banks to test the spurious currency, it is reported. Installed behind the counters, the monkeys test the coins between their teeth. If good, no marks are left on the metal, and the coins are thrown into a box at the animal's side. Should the coins be bad, the metal bears visible marks and is thrown on the floor, later to be swept up and destroyed.

Strange Animal Being Sought in Heart of Jungle

Deep in the depths of East African jungles, the "Nandi bear," depicted by natives as a ferocious species of man-eating hyena with striped skin, is being sought by scientists. The tales of frightened villagers and fragmentary reports from hunters indicate that the animal is taller and much more powerful than the ordinary hyena. In the last ten years, extensive explorations have resulted in the discovery of many new animals, among which the okapi, a large zebra-like creature, is regarded as the most important. Smaller animals are constantly being found and the old Roman adage, "Out of Africa, always something new," is almost daily proved true. Scientists believe, however, that there are few of the larger species that have escaped identification.

Auto Death in U. S. Every Thirty-Five Minutes

Every time the clock recorded thirty-five minutes during the last year, a person was killed on the highways of the country, and each minute, approximately three persons were injured, delegates to the convention of the American road builders were told. In twelve months highway accidents claimed a total of 15,000 lives and caused 1,700,000 injuries, according to the figures given. Uniform traffic regulations, established by all states, strict enforcement of these laws, systematic maintenance of roads and safety education in schools were urged to curb the ever mounting number of fatalities. In Wisconsin, a survey of accidents during the past two years was said to have proved that most of them occurred on straight roads, largely due to attempts of drivers to pass one another. Railway grade crossings, however, were declared to be the most dangerous.

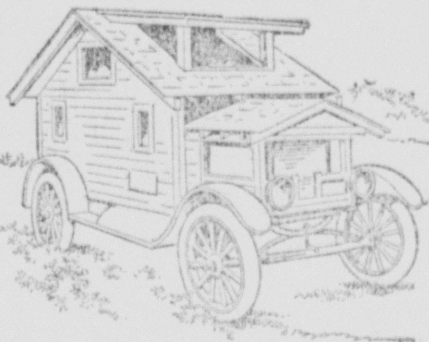

In the Bank of England the "grand balance" or scale used is so sensitive that the weight of a postage stamp moves the index six inches.

Radio Beacon Guides Aviator on Hundred-Mile Flight

Guided only by signals spoken over a radio beacon, an aviator recently flew from Dayton, Ohio, to a point one hundred miles distant, arriving there without mishap and without losing his course at any point. In his receiver he heard the letters A and T (--- --) repeated over and over. As he flew along the correct course, both letters were equally loud, but the moment he got off the course to one side or the other, one letter became noticeably louder than the other and showed him which way to turn to get back.

Cottage Built on Auto Gives Tourists Home Comforts

Fitted upon the chassis of a small touring car, a miniature cottage supplies an Iowa contractor, his wife, and two children with luxurious quarters while on motor tours. Electric lighted throughout, the house provides ample protection from dust and rain, there is space for a cradle for the baby and other comforts of home. The front window in the roof gives the driver a full view of the road ahead and glass in the rear makes it possible to see behind. Entrance is provided by a side door and one at the rear. The radiator fills the screened-in "porch" which has one side on hinges so that the engine can be reached easily. The cottage weighs but little more than the enclosed body of standard type and proves an effective advertising device.

any way of knowing who has the largest number of votes until the judges are through counting. May the best candidate win.

Saturday night and it will be all over but the shouting. That will have to come later, for until the votes are counted and recorded, there cannot be any decision and without a decision there is no use shouting. There is no telling who will do the shouting—the campaign manager don't even know, neither does anyone else. Rumors of what such and such a candidate has in the way of votes will be rife, but they should be treated as rumors.

A candidate may know what she has but it is certain that no body else will know unless they give out the information themselves. The reason for this is obvious. The votes that are given to the candidates will be put right into the locked ballot box as those which are brought into the office. The box will not be opened until the judges take charge at 9 o'clock sharp Saturday night. This makes it quite impossible that anybody but the candidates should know what their strength is or what changes have taken place in the standing of the campaign since the campaign started.

For all the campaign manager knows some of the candidates who were not in the running at all during the last week, may have enough votes in the ballot box to give them a prominent place—and they may still be in the run at the end of the campaign—nobody knows but the candidates themselves.

Speaking of rumors, there were some of the dark horses, that were quite worthy of credence, and there were also some starts made for the place that looked inviting. This is no time for sitting down in the firm belief that the contest is all over—now is the time to put up the fight, right now, today. The time is not ripe for driving the Essex Coach. The contest will not close until nine o'clock Saturday night. So much for the rumors and credence which might be given them. There is no doubt but that some hot fight is on. The campaign manager does not have to go out of the office to be aware of this fact.

If the fight in Cameron is hot, it is a mere bean bag battle compared to what is going on in the towns and villages in the outside territory where there are a few favorite candidates. I would be idle to speculate on what will be doing but the candidates in Cameron too have a host of friends helping them to victory.

Every facility will be offered the candidates for getting their subscrip-

FITTING BANKERS FOR THEIR WORK

Financial conditions are rapidly increasing the demand for trained men and women. This demand is met by the American Institute of Banking, the educational section of the American Bankers Association, organized in 1900. It was originally an association of clerks, but since 1905 its membership has included bank directors, officers and clerks. From a few hundred the institute's membership has grown steadily to a figure in excess of fifty-two thousand. It is not conducted for profit. It has chapters in more than one hundred and fifty of the country's largest cities. Its class enrollment of nearly thirty thousand is greater than the combined registration of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, the University of Chicago and the naval and military academies at Annapolis and West Point. It offers instruction in banking practice, economics, commercial law, negotiable instruments, credits, accounting, bonds and investments, public speaking, and kindred subjects designed to fit the banker for his work and enable him to fill well his place in his community.—Clarence R. Chaney, President American Institute of Banking.

EVANS' Corner

This corner is devoted to business, politics and general news.

I am writing this Tuesday night before the City Council meets, and therefore have no idea who will be appointed as school trustees. Some people maintain that it is better to have the Trustees appointed by the Council than to elect them by popular vote, thereby keep it out of "politics." I believe it is as clean as those who vote. There are very few towns in Texas who are operating under such an old dilapidated charter that they are not permitted to elect their school trustees. Cameron is one of them. Those who favor the old obsolete style should swap their cars for a horse and buggy.

Why have a school board any way? Let the council take over the work.

The eyes of Cameron are on the new administration. If you keep the city as clean of vice for the next two years as it has been the past two years, you have a real man's job on your hands.

If you need glasses, "Evan's Corner" is a good place to get them. Good electrical equipment for testing your eyes.

News of the Churches

METHODIST CHOR EN-TERTAINMENT HELD.

On Thursday evening in the basement of the Methodist church the choir members gathered for an evening of pleasure.

In a recent contest to promote regular attendance the men and women members of the choir were pitted against each other. The result of the contest was a tie; so the director Mrs. C. S. Peyton, decided that the entertainment program and refreshments should be equally provided by each side.

Rev. R. S. Marshall furnished the first program number rehearsing some interesting experiences.

The ladies gave two choruses: "John Browns Baby" and "Three Wandering Jews" their trained voices and descriptive gestures lending charm to the rendition. They promised as finale an entertaining feature after the men's program.

Each number of the men's program was prefaced by a few remarks from Fletcher R. Dunlap who was in costume. As a beginning Fritz Kruisler impersonated by J. L. Clinton with Fat Zanusky, his accompanist impersonated by Bill Alex Bonds, gave a violin number that was applauded. Mr. Clinton then entertained with "The Irish Jubilee" which has to be heard to be properly appreciated.

The second number of the program was a sacred chorus entitled "I Want to be a Christian," sung by the musical members of the Methodist choir.

The third number on the program was a piano obligato entitled "Who Spilled the Beans," played by Patrick Kaneuski accompanied by his famous lipstick orchestra.

The fourth and closing number on the men's program was a chorus written especially for this occasion by Prof. Pieappetite entitled "Treat US Right," and sung by Patrick Kanuski and the male gluttons.

It was sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle, and these are the words: We want to say we've got a hunch You've made a big mistake, We don't want none of your cold fruit punch,

And none of your chocolate cake.

Chorus:
Coffee, coffee, pie, pie, pie,
Coffee, coffee, pie, pie, pie,
Coffee, coffee, pie, pie, pie,
We want coffee and pie, PIE.

We like the way the ladies serve, And the songs that they have sung, But we don't want no sandwiches, And one of your cold boiled tongue.

Chorus—
Altos and sopranos can live on bananas,
But ice cream makes us ache,
We're fond of coffee, chicken pie,
Whipped cream and strawberry short cake.

Chorus—
So come on now and be a sport,
Don't make us think you're short, short,

Bring on the coffee and the pie,
We want coffee and pie, PIE."

The last part of the program was the feature contribution of the ladies committee and proved an eye opener to the men and to the guests present. A mirth refreshment course with spring blossoms as plate favors.

The following is the personnel of the Methodist choir:

Mesdames W. A. Bonds, B. F. Bonds, J. L. Clinton, A. J. Triggs, R. H. Johnson, T. C. Stafford, Claud Triggs, Wm. Woods, W. O. Stafford, F. R. Dunlap, Wm. Cobb, Fred Cable, Jeff Kemp, Misses Juanita Stafford, Glennie Stafford, Maureine Clinton, Ruth Kemp, Ruby Caton, Messrs. T. F. Hardy, F. R. Dunlap, A. W. Eslinger, W. O. Stafford, A. C. Freeman, A. M. Lankford, J. L. Clinton, W. A. Bonds, T. A. Fisher, R. A. Tag, Claude Triggs, C. S. Peyton, Wm. Woods, Miss Lucile Dickard, Organist; Mrs. C. S. Peyton, Director.

ST. RITA'S CIRCLE.

Mrs. B. Michalka was hostess of the St. Rita's Circle at the K. C. hall last Thursday afternoon.

Dainty needlework and delightful chatting were indulged in for several hours, after which the hostess served delicious ice cream and cake.

A pleasant time was enjoyed by all in attendance.

Mrs. Ralph Michalka will be hostess for the next meeting on the 24th.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Members of the Christian Endeavor Society and their chosen friends were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. James Watson at their lovely home Friday evening.

The boys and girls made merry in the games of "Winktum," "Threading the Needle," Spinning the Plate, in which all participated.

Couplets were distributed for an automobile contest and in this Henry McFadyen, Vance Slocomb were the successful contestants.

Refreshments of strawberries and ice cream with iced angel food cake were served.

The party was pronounced a most delightful success by the coterie of guests who expressed their gratitude to Dr. and Mrs. Watson.

METHODISTS TO BEGIN REVIVAL MEETING HERE ON SUNDAY APRIL 27TH.

A revival meeting at the Methodist church will begin on Sunday April 27.

Rev. King Vivian pastor of the Methodist church at College Station, will preach during the meeting and Alfred R. Wells of Dallas will have charge of the personal workers.

Mr. Wells is a trained worker among the juniors and intermediates and will devote the afternoons to this work.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO BEGIN REVIVAL FRIDAY.

A revival meeting will be held at the Christian church in Cameron beginning Friday evening.

The subject for Sunday will be "The Battle Over the Grave," an Easter sermon by Rev. Davis of Taylor, pastor of the church.

The meeting will continue indefinitely and the preaching will be done by Rev. Davis. The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting.

METHODIST BROTHERHOOD.

The basement of the Methodist church was aglow with light on Wednesday evening and seven long tables were covered with snowy linens and adorned with spring blossoms and set for the feast which awaited the men of the Methodist Brotherhood upon their assemblage at 7:45 p. m. The hall was full and at a signal from President Oxsheer Smith all took places at the tables to enjoy the feast prepared by the ladies of circle number three led by Mrs. A. E. Sharpe with the following menu:

Chicken Giblet gravy, Louisiana rice, new Irish potatoes garnished with parsley, Creole corn, hot rolls, Coffee, strawberry short cake, Whipped cream.

Miss Eloise Rogers accompanied by Miss Lucile Dickard sang a group of Southern songs.

Supt. of Schools, Madison Hall of Bryan, was introduced by Toastmaster Oxsheer Smith who made an appropriate talk.

Hon. Warren Stone of Mt. Clemens, Michigan, Assistant Attorney General of that state was next introduced and captured the crowd by his witty and most felicitous address.

A clever debate by local barristers was next heard with Alex Triggs as referee. Hon Tom Henderson and Hon. Roy Baskin were the contestants for honors in eloquence. A block of ice was held in the hands of the contestant not speaking until his opponent hesitated for a word then the ice changed hands. Hon. Roy Baskin won and City Attorney Paul Webb was asked to present the prize which was most happily done.

Judge W. C. Davis of Bryan was then presented by the Toastmaster and entertained and inspired his hearers with one of his most convincing arguments in his most pleasing manner.

This entertainment will be followed in May by the last of the series with a royal spread for the ladies who have served the monthly banquets for the Brotherhood.

JOE RICHTER GIVEN APPOINTMENT HERE AS NIGHT WATCHMAN.

M. H. WOLFE SCORES NEFF ON DELEGATION

WANTS INSTRUCTED DELEGATION AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

"No half-baked politician for President" said M. H. Wolfe, former Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee today. This should be the slogan of every true American in this crisis hour of the world's history.

I am very fond of Governor Neff, and for many years I have counted him one of my closest personal friends, but his theory of sending uninstructed delegates to the National Democratic Convention is a direct stab at the chief principles of Democracy—Government by the people and for the people. The very genius of democracy is the rule of the people, and when we commit any act that will break down that principle we thus repudiate the foundation stone that made America the greatest nation around the globe. In other years when not much was at stake we might have been willing to send delegates uninstructed, but when civilization is hanging in the balance we must not take a risk like that. Above all else we need a man for President who has been seasoned and tried in Governmental affairs—one who has large experience in solving gigantic problems that are too deep for the most of us to fathom. Only a few men in America are thus equipped and I would call Texas democrats to search out such a man and instruct our delegates to support him first, last and all the time, and thereby defeat deeply laid plans to place in the Presidential chair a man who is a wet reactionary.

cars as in 1923, which was itself a man Hudson and Essex dealer.

"Despite any talk of slack times, our volume of business has gone ahead on a scale of unprecedented improvement."

"Now that spring is here, and with it the customary rush for cars, we feel conservative in saying that buyers had better place their orders now if they want to be sure of the delivery of an Essex car."

"We want every motorist to recognize clearly the identity of Hudson-Essex, and Hudson-Essex is the Coach."

"The Society of Automotive Engineers now has recognized the Coach, and has formally defined it as a distinctive type. But the best definition is the one given by Hudson-Essex when they invented the Coach. It is a car which gives closed car comforts at open car cost."

"There is a Hudson Coach and an Essex Coach. They are just alike in their comfort, their durability and their all-season usefulness. The Essex is just so much Hudson, and a man can make up his mind on whether to buy a Hudson or Essex Coach purely on the issue of how much he wishes to pay."

"The Coach is an exclusive Hudson-Essex product. Despite the popularity of Hudson-Essex open cars and the Hudson sedan, the Coach is the car which makes up the very great bulk of Hudson-Essex business."

"We do not know who started this talk about a lull in the automobile business. Certainly Hudson-Essex has not felt it. The fact probably is that the motoring public has become more discriminating in its choice, and a few lines which best meet the public's preference have been getting the big mass of the whole business. Every intelligent observer has known right along that this would be a highly competitive year."

"But for Hudson-Essex—why, the pace was never before so fast."

COMMERCIAL CLUB HAS INQUIRY ON NEW HOTEL

MISSOURI MAN WANTS TO KNOW IF CITY HAS OPENING FOR MODERN HOTEL.

The Commercial Club has received a communication from a hotel operator in Missouri who wants to know if there is an opening for a modern hotel in Cameron.

The club has referred the matter to the home industry committee for action and it is likely that this committee will have the man come to Cameron. The committee has asked the committee from the Lions club to co-operate in the matter.

The club Monday night did not have before it any matter of importance and of course the meeting was usual.

Dr. G. E. Sutton head of the Agricultural committee said he believed the county agent should show a more active interest in the various clubs peculiar to farm boys and the work of the agent was discussed to some extent.

The club had a communication from the Young Men's business League of Waco asking that the club send a representative with the league to West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The trip is now being planned by the Waco organization. The club declined to send a delegate.

A reception committee was authorized to meet Governor Neff on next Saturday afternoon when the governor speaks in Cameron.

Warren S. Stone, assistant attorney general of the state of Michigan, who is in Cameron visiting his daughter Mrs. T. S. Henderson, Jr., was at the club meeting and made a short talk in which he complimented the club on its achievements in Cameron.

Baptist Campaign Has Put $4,000,000 Into Care of South's Orphan Children

Benevolent Phases of Forward Movement Are Set Out In General Statement From Headquarters—Hospitals and Ministerial Relief Greatly Extended.

A Group of Happy Homeless Boys Provided for in a Baptist Orphanage.

Of the $45,500,000 that has been collected in cash on the Baptist 75 Million Campaign to January 1, 1924, the sum of $7,732,931.53 has gone to such benevolent work as caring for orphan children, healing the sick and ministering to aged, worn-out preachers. It is announced by the headquarters of the Campaign.

CARE OF ORPHANS.

More than half of the benevolent fund, or $3,595,192.63, has gone to the 21 Baptist orphanages of the South, two of which have been established as a result of this movement and all of which have been greatly helped by this forward program. Nearly 4,000 orphan boys and girls are being housed, fed, clothed, educated and trained for Christian citizenship in these orphanages and the Campaign has put between $800,000 and $900,000 into the maintenance of these institutions each year. The orphanages are now caring for more children than their normal capacities permit, but despite this extra effort the institutions have been compelled to turn down the applications of 2,000 other orphan boys and girls, simply because there was no room for them.

Sick and Suffering Aided.

Large advance has been made in the ministry of Southern Baptists to the sick and suffering during the four years of the Campaign. At the time this movement was inaugurated Southern Baptists were operating twelve hospitals. The number now in operation has grown to 22, six others are practically completed and ready for service, while two more have been projected. At the time the Campaign began the value of Southern Baptist hospital property was $2,227,000, while today it has grown to approximately $9,000,000 among the institutions already in operation. The number of hospital beds has increased from 1,523 to 3,000.

During the four years of the Campaign a total of 170,000 patients have been treated in these hospitals. Approximately $1,000,000 worth of charity service has been performed there for needy but deserving persons.

925 Old Preachers Helped.

Into the work of ministerial relief the Campaign has put the sum of $1,440,133.31. More than $500,000 has been put into supplying the needs of aged and dependent ministers and their families. This, representing the efforts of four years, is far more than Southern Baptists had ever done for old preachers in all their history prior to the launching of this forward movement. At the same time the Relief and Annuity Board has gathered an interest-bearing endowment and sinking fund for relief alone of more than $450,000, and has gathered for its annuity work an interest-bearing endowment and sinking fund of more than $1,100,000. Today 925 beneficiaries are carried on the rolls of the Relief and Annuity Board.

An effort is being made to bring the 75 Million Campaign to a successful completion during 1924. It is announced by the headquarters office, and forces are at work in every state in the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention with a view to enlisting the churches in the immediate discharge of the task they assumed in this five-year movement.

The Spirit of Easter

The Famous Felix Hanson

By Marion R. Reagan

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

SEE here, Jack, you've got to help me out. You see Jane Ramsay's crazy about writers, and all the chaps at her house that night were either aspiring young authors themselves, or knew most of the famous ones. I was completely out of it. And when I heard her rave about this chap Felix Hanson, and none of the rest of them seemed to know him, why I made a bluff at saying I did, see? I thought it would kind of put me in solid with her. I never dreamed it would go any farther. But here's a letter from her today begging me to come up for Easter Sunday breakfast and bring my friend Felix Hanson. Now, what I want you to do is go along with me and pretend you're Hanson, see? No one will ever know the difference. You look a lot like this fellow's pictures, and if any difficulty does arise, I'll see you through."

Jack Hartford did not receive the suggestion with much enthusiasm, but several hours later as he left Simmons' room, the latter called after him, "Thanks, old man, you're a trump," and immediately sat down to scribble off a note to Miss Ramsay, accepting her invitation.

There was excitement in the Ramsay household when the note arrived. "Oh, mother, we must be sure to have every thing just right. Think of entertaining the great Felix Hanson! I am so glad it happens to be Easter, too; we can get him to tell his famous Easter story. They say he tells it so well. It seems it was the first time he had ever worn a frock coat. He was taking his best girl to church Easter morning, and the girl's mischievous young brother slipped an egg, which had been colored but not boiled, into the pocket in the tail of the coat. He never noticed it until he sat down. Then it was too late," Jane laughed. "We'll get him to tell that one."

Hartford, masquerading as the famous young Felix Hanson was feeling a little warm. He pulled uncomfortably at his collar which seemed suddenly to have grown too tight. Across from him sat the lovely Jane Ramsay, beaming at him benignly over the gaily decorated breakfast table. He could easily understand why Bill Simmons would go to any length to gain her good graces, but why had he to be the one let in for such a mess? If he were found out, what would this girl think of him anyway? It would make him too ridiculous for apology. And on the other hand, he disliked to think of letting so delightful a creature pass out of his life with never an effort to win her. And certainly if she were to continue to believe him to be Felix Hanson, a married man, there was no chance of his ever declaring himself, or even allowing their acquaintance to proceed further. The whole thing was very silly. Darn Simmons anyway. Jane leaned over the table, "Oh, Mr.

Hanson, won't you tell us that perfectly screaming story about the Easter eggs?"

"Oh, that, that, y-yes, indeed," laughed Jack a little nervously. He looked quickly at Simmons for aid. There was no indication of intelligence on the laughing face of that gentleman, however, and for the moment Jack would willingly have killed his friend. But he would not be undone. His lively imagination came to his aid.

"You see," he began, "My mother wouldn't give me any eggs to color for Easter, so I went around to all the coops in the surrounding neighborhood and stole them. Mother didn't discover it until after I had them all dyed, and of course she was furious. 'Take them every one back and put them where you got them,' she said. And I did. The next morning when the neighbors went to get their eggs and found them all colored, they believed their chickens were diseased. There was no end of trouble and alarm before they learned what really happened."

Simmons laughed loudly, but he was the only one present who did. Mrs. Ramsay and Jane exchanged questioning glances and began talking of other things.

As he said good-bye, Jack could not forego pressing Jane's hand tenderly. "I'm very glad to have met you, Miss Ramsay. I hope I may see you again?"

Jane smiled. "Yes, I want to see you again, Mr.—Mr.—what is your right name? You see," she laughed, "I know you are not Mr. Hanson."

Hartford was so surprised that for the moment he could not tell his own name. He was enormously relieved, however, to find their relations might be put on a normal basis.

"Jack Hartford's my name," he said at last. "And say, when can I come up to see you," he asked in an undertone.

"Perhaps tomorrow," she whispered. There was a twinkle in her eye and a soft smile on her lips that put joy in the heart of Jack as he and Simmons turned to go.

"Well, old man, you were wonderful, wonderful," said Simmons when they were alone. "I bet I stand ace high with her now."

"Oh, do you?" said Jack, and added in a tone of extreme politeness which left Simmons a little perplexed "I am grateful to you for the opportunity of rendering that service."

ECCE HOMO

Now as the Christian year goes round,
Once more the time draws near
When tragedy and joy are met —Dispel the age-long fear.

Oh, Christ, the pale and bleeding One,
On Friday crucified,
Three days remaining in the tomb,
On Sunday glorified.

Thy sufferings cause our hearts to melt
Thy piteous human woe,
Thy triumph rolls away our grief,
Sin's power is laid low.

Thy blessed Eastertide, O Christ,
Death conquered once again;
We seize salvation, nor will let
Thy sacrifice be vain.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Menthosulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Kowles Menthosulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

in New England Magazine

DREARY, weary was the earth,
And and and sore of winter's pains.
The trees lifted their leafless boughs
In prayer, and prayer was all in vain.
Stillness of death in field and wood,
The stream in bondage pitiless,
The sod, bereft of life and joy,
Lay sullen in its hopelessness.

There was no pity in the sky,
There was no mercy in the air,
No radiance in the sunset cloud,
But gloom and menace everywhere;
When, hark!—a bird-note, sweet and clear,
The prophet robin calls in glee
To stream and field and woodland drear
The miracle, so soon to be!

And lo, the dead old earth awakes,
And every root and bough and bole
Thrills with a new life's ecstasy,
And pulses with a throbbing soul;
And shall it be denied to man
To rise from gloom of death's dark night,
When nature beckons year by year
To Resurrection, Life and Light!

When Easter Comes

By Marjorie McKeown
in Detroit News

THIS year Easter comes on April 20. The earliest it can occur is March 22, and the latest April 25—so the feast this year favors the later date. It is a very rare thing for it to occur as early as March 22. In 1761 and 1818 it was on March 22—but apparently it was such an unwelcome affair that people celebrated it on the wrong day in 1818.

In the Easter schedule up to and including 1905 the earliest date on which Easter occurs is March 24, and that happens in 1940. But 1924 will see Easter on April 20. In fact, Easter seems to show a partiality for certain dates, and a neglect of others. April 20 seems to be a prime favorite, falling on that date three times in 11 years—once in 1919, again this year, and also in 1930. But, strangely enough, in the next forty years, the Easter of most recurring frequency is on April 1—so it would seem on this occasion the follies of April Fool's day could well be shifted to a week day. Easter Sunday will be celebrated on April 1 in 1934, 1945 and 1950.

But April 1 does not stand alone in this respect and has to share honors with April 17, which claims Easter in 1927, 1938, 1949 and 1960. April 5 is another favorite occasion—the Easter date of 1931, 1942 and 1953—as is April 9, the day upon which the Resurrection is observed in 1939, 1944 and 1950.

The Easter celebration which skips so carelessly over the month of March and April was the subject of a bitter controversy, which raged some 16 centuries ago. The present rule for the determination of Easter is that it must fall on the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon that happens to be reigning at the time of the vernal equinox (the point which the sun passes in crossing the equator from south to north). But the vernal equinox was arbitrarily determined and declared to fall on March 21, whether it would or no. In reality it often fell a little earlier or a little later.

The controversy arose over the fact that in the early days the Christian Easter and the Jewish Passover were usually celebrated on the same day. As the opposition of the Christians to the Jews became more acute the agitation against celebrating Easter on the same day as the Passover grew. In the Second century the churches of Asia Minor, many of which were racially Jewish, kept Easter on the Passover date, the fourteenth of Nisan, the Jewish month which corresponds to our March or April. But the churches of the West, in recognition of the fact that the Resurrection took place on Sunday, kept their festival on the Sunday following the fourteenth of Nisan. By this they accomplished the double purpose of celebrating the Resurrection on the Sabbath and of separating themselves from the Jews. Tertullian states that in the Occident and in Carthage Easter was an immovable feast, taking place in the month of March. He names March 25 as the day of the death of Christ, and it is presumed that on that date a fast was begun which was broken the following Sunday in the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

When these disputes arose Polycarp, the bishop of Smyrna, in 155 A. D., conferred with Anicetus, the bishop of Rome, upon the question, Polycarp pleading the practice of SS. Phillip and John, the Anicetus referring to SS. Peter and Paul. Neither could convince the other and the matter dropped for the time being.

But at the end of the Second century Victor, the bishop of Rome, decided it was time to compel the Eastern churches to follow in Rome's lead, and wrote a letter demanding that the prelates of Asia celebrate Easter on the same day as the Western church. The East refused and the dispute became bitter, and all those who kept Easter on the fourteenth of Nisan were termed by their opponents Quartodecimans. Another objection to the Eastern way of reckoning the feast was due to the imperfections of the Jewish calendar. The Western Christians considered the vernal equinox the beginning of the natural year, and owing to the miscalculation in the Jewish calendar the Passover was sometimes celebrated before the vernal equinox. This resulted in the paschal feast sometimes being held twice within one year and omitted altogether in the next.

At the beginning of the Fourth century the Emperor Constantine decided that it was time to end the controversy. And at that time at the council of Nice the regulation was made that Easter should fall upon the Lord's day following the full moon of Nisan.

But owing to several causes, among them, perhaps, the use of different astronomical cycles, this regulation did not do away with all controversies concerning the date. Certain it is that the Irish and early Anglo-Saxons, before the council of Whitby, did not observe the same day as the Romans. To settle the matter, Oswy, King of Northumbria, decided to take the matter in hand and held a council at Whitby, A. D., 664. Colman, bishop of Lindisfarne, represented the British church, while the Roman party had for its champions Agilbert, bishop of Dorchester, and Wilfrid, a young Saxon. Colman spoke first and argued that the custom of the church of Britain ought not to be changed since it was inherited from their forefathers, men who had been loved of God.

Wilfrid replied, "The Easter which we observe I saw celebrated by all at Rome; there, where the blessed apostles, Peter and Paul, lived, taught, suffered and were buried." Then he concluded, "And if, after all, that Columba (the great Irish monk) of yours were, which I will not deny, a holy man, gifted with the power of working miracles, is he, I ask, to be preferred before the blessed Prince of the Apostles, to whom our Lord said, 'Thou art Peter, and upon this rock will I build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it; and to thee will I give the keys of the kingdom of heaven?'"

Then, King Oswy, turning to Colman, demanded, "Is it true or not, Colman, that these words were spoken to Peter by our Lord?" Colman was confused and unable to deny it. He returned, "It is true, O king."

"Then," said the king, "can you show me any such power given to your Columba?"

"No," was the answer.

"You are both then agreed, are you not," continued the king, "that these words were addressed principally to Peter, and that to him were given the keys of the kingdom by our Lord?"

Both agreed.

"Then," said the king, "I tell you plainly, I shall not stand opposed to the doorkeeper of the Kingdom of Heaven; I desire, as far as in me lies, to adhere to his precepts and obey his commands, lest by offending him who keepeth the keys, I should, when I present myself at the gate, find no one to open to me."

Thus the controversy ended, much to the dissatisfaction of Colman, who resigned his see rather than submit to the decision.

The Easter Rabbit

ALTHOUGH the Easter rabbit has been adopted pretty generally as one of the symbols of the Easter time, it has a German origin, and it is employed with more significance by the people of German extraction than by others. Many children have been taught the old tale that if they are good and mind their parents the Easter rabbit—or hare, in the old version—will visit them on Easter eve and leave all sorts of beautifully-colored eggs.

Children who have been taught this tale look forward to Easter morning almost as much as they do to Christmas, and steal out of bed very, very early to see if the Easter rabbit has passed adverse judgment upon their conduct and left no eggs, but suddenly a brilliantly colored one is spied in some secret place and the thrill of the hunt quickens until finally all the eggs are discovered.

Drink Water If Back or Kidneys Hurt

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WHO

WILL WIN THE ESSEX COACH

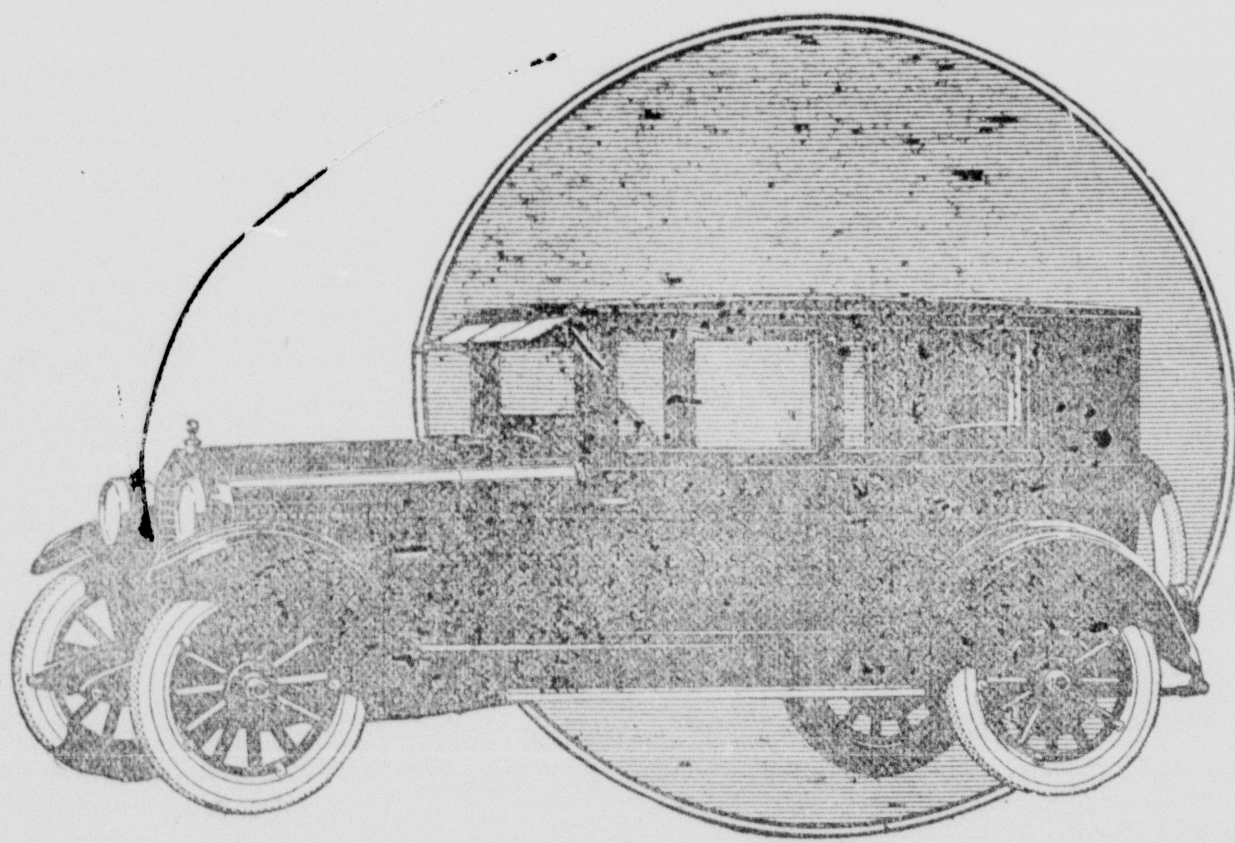

The Cameron Herald Campaign Will Close
SATURDAY NIGHT, APRIL 19TH AT 9 O'CLOCK

With the final hour, 9 o'clock Saturday night, April 19th emblazoned on their minds, stirring scenes are being enacted by candidate's in the Great Automobile Campaign that is now swiftly drawing to a close. Aroused to unprecedented opportunities of winning the beautiful motor cars and other prizes, each hour is instilling new energy into the ambitious workers. Everywhere they are swarming in eager and anxious quest for subscriptions that will win in the big votes, and in the end, the Essex Coach or the Chevrolet Touring Car. These workers pay no attention to rumors that circulate with the hope of damaging effect: misleading stories have but one object—influencing some candidate to retire for fear of being passed by someone else in the race. Such tales have no foundation whatsoever. It is obvious that no one can determine the ultimate results of the campaign.

Courage and downright hustle are the two main things to observe. Votes are the only things that will win prizes and every candidate should, for that matter is, taking upon herself to annex just as many votes as possible between now and the close. The road ahead may be strewn with barriers, but these will be of slight importance to the ones who go steadfastly onward through the corridors of chance and out in the "Land Where Happiness Lies."

Campaign Closes Forever Promptly at 9 O'clock Saturday Night

In a way this Campaign may be likened to a field of battle. One hears the rumble of distant guns approaching, nearer they come, steadily pursuing their onward march. Every obstacle that impedes their progress is shattered to bits, and as they loom on the horizon, the tumult becomes deafening when the mighty one's sweep the path before them, never hesitating in the lines of progress. It is a kind of progress that candidates are making. With the shortness of the time acting as a quickening impulse, and the magnificent prizes spurring them to be the first to claim them, these candidates are preparing to give during the next two days, the greatest exhibition of courage and tenacity ever experienced in this vicinity. Every hour is important now, and so is every subscription. The only difference in having an automobile and not having one is "votes." That is why unprecedented activity is being displayed in obtaining subscriptions, and second payments on subscriptions that have been secured earlier in the campaign.

The final scale and EXTRA VOTE OFFER is the golden horn of plenty that will pour out, votes by the thousands. STUDY IT. Note the big vote figures. See for yourself that ten year subscriptions will place the winning votes in the palm of your hand, and that second payments on all subscriptions is a splendid help. See every person that you have seen before, and secure an extension of their subscription. Those second payments may put you in the winning.

Every possible subscription is urgently needed to win, for the present manner in which votes are piling up makes it appear that the outcome will be remarkably close. Who knows but what a few subscriptions will separate you from the prize you are longing for?

Adding to the uncertainty of the finish are the quiet but energetic workers in this campaign who have not been working with an object in view. These are the "DARK HORSES" that bear watching.

An Easter SermonPower of Life Eternal

By S. J. Duncan Clark

THE season of the resurrection story has come again. Throughout the Christian world the minds and hearts of men are turned to dwell upon a fact which no naturalistic critic of the Gospels has ever succeeded in explaining away.

Faith may differ over whether the reported resurrection experiences of the followers of Jesus were objective or subjective, but history records beyond effective contradiction the compelling and transforming result upon life and character of those experiences. Whatever doubt may be held as to whether the men and women who testified to seeing the risen Christ, looked with the eyes of the body upon an actual physical manifestation of their Master, there can be no doubt as to the certainty of their conviction that He whom they had seen taken from the cross, whose body had been laid in Joseph's tomb, survived as a real and living presence in their midst. This faith brought together the frightened and dejected group of disciples in the spirit of confident rejoicing; it carried them through arduous labor and bitter persecution; it won to them increasing adherents; it triumphed over every difficulty, over all opposition. It became the power of the life eternal, giving new significance to all life, new meaning to all the lessons they learned from the Master's lips.

We may build this faith upon the empty tomb, but, in fact, it had deeper foundation than that. It went back behind the tomb and the cross to the living Christ as they had known Him. Everything that they had seen of Him and heard of Him made it reasonable, made it logical, made it, in a sense, inevitable. He had lived in the power of the life eternal. It was inconceivable that the beauty, the goodness and the truth which found embodiment in Him could perish, that the personality which they expressed could be less than forever enduring. The existence of these values—inseparable from personality—was essential to the understanding of life as anything more than a purposeless tragedy, a futile breath in a chaotic and meaningless world.

To have known Jesus was to have known that there is a spiritual reality which transcends the material and the temporal. This consciousness had been quickened in the souls of His followers. The jealous hatred of His foes, the brutal cross of Roman power, the sealed tomb—these were the evanescent, the illusory means whereby it was stupidly sought to destroy the eternal reality of His love, His wisdom, His soaring faith in God. And the effort had failed. How could it be otherwise? How can it ever be otherwise?

And the meaning of His life was just this—that the reality in the life of all men is the possibility of becoming like Him, of expressing beauty and goodness and truth, of living now and always in the power of the life eternal. To him who has seen this possibility, faith in the continuity of life, in the persistence of personality, comes naturally and will not permit of contradiction; to him death is merely an incident—not even an interruption—it is a step in the process, an escape from the shadows of illusion into the full light of reality. It is robbed of fears and robbed in the glory of hope.

The effect of such a faith and such a hope is seen in the story of the early church, a story marked by suddenly intensified interest in the supreme importance of human values by the flaming of a splendid spiritual idealism against the background of a world given over to the flesh, by the immediate broadening of sympathies in a race of narrow prejudices to overwhelm and submerge the ingrained prejudices of tradition and former religious training, by the emphasis upon justice and brotherhood in human relations, upon character and unselfish services. Men and women began to live the life eternal, personality was appraised in terms of the enduring, and the things of time and change fell back into their proper subordinate places.

It is a revival of that resurrection faith which the world needs today, a faith in the reality of the continuing life and the things which belong to it. Nothing else can save us from the perverted sense of values which curses humanity, from the circling pursuit of illusion, from the vain struggle for that which cannot satisfy.

The vital message of this Easter season is the call to every man to live in the light and power of the life eternal, and the assurance that to every man such a life is possible. Jesus lived it supremely. Those who dare to follow where He leads may know its joy, and, when the world accepts His leadership it will find both righteousness and peace—these treasures it can never find while it gropes amid the shadows of its passing pride and pomp.

The Easter Message

Easter that answers humanity's deepest longing, that promises fulfillment of its sweetest hope, should bring each one of us a message which will give meaning and beauty to everyday life, and to every duty. Listen to it.

TAX ON TICKETS.

The law as contained in the Revenue Act of 1921 relating to the printing and sale of tickets to any place, must be strictly complied with by all organizations and persons concerned. Failure to observe the requirements of the Law as to this matter subjects those in default to heavy penalties.

Any person or organization not thoroughly familiar with the Law relating to the printing and sale of tickets should obtain full information as to this matter a considerable time prior to having the tickets printed. This applies to all persons and organizations claiming exemption from the admissions tax, as well as to those who are required to collect the tax. Exemption from collection of admissions tax is granted only in exceptional cases and all those persons or organizations claiming exemption are required to conclusively prove their exempt status, before the Collector is authorized to grant an exemption certificate.

No one in Cameron who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Cameron man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Cameron resident can doubt.

M. W. Mitchell, retired farmer,

503 E. Fifteenth St., says: "My kidneys were out of order and I had a weakness across my back and loins. The kidney secretions annoyed me by their irregular passage, at times being too free and then again, scanty. Very often the kidney secretions contained a brick-dust-like sediment. A friend recommended Doan's Pills and I used them. Doan's soon relieved me of all symptoms of kidney complaint."

Over Four Years Later, Mr. Mitchell added: "I feel just as kind toward Doan's Pills now in when I endorsed them before. Doan's

Ford Steel Body Truck $490
L. O. B. Detroit

Why Commercial Users
Prefer the Ford

There is much significance in the fact that more than 75% of all commercial cars of one-ton capacity or less in the United States are Fords.

This overwhelming preference for Ford haulage units has its basis in the low cost of Ford transportation, the rugged construction of the truck itself, and its unusual adaptability to every line of industry.

Mechanical excellence, simplicity of design and ample power are further factors that have contributed to the popularity of the Ford One-Ton Worm Drive Truck.

The Ford One-Ton Truck equipped with an all-steel body and cab is now available as a complete unit, priced at $490 L.O.B. Detroit. Screen sides and canopy roof that may be easily fitted to this unit are supplied at small additional cost.

JOHN HAHN TELLS HOW TO OVERCOME SPRING ILLS

Well Known Missouri
Pacific Man Knows
From Experience
what Tanlac will do.

The safest and surest way to avoid that dull, dragging feeling of the body, sluggish mind, lagging memory, depression of spirits, nervousness, kidney and liver disorders, headaches, dizziness and other distressing troubles so prevalent in Springtime is to regulate the appetite and tone up the stomach and digestive organs, thereby ridding the system of the impurities that have accumulated during the long winter months.

So many thousands of people have testified to the invigorating and health-building properties of Tanlac that its wonderful merits cannot be doubted. Further striking evidence of this fact is given by John H. Hahn, 728 West McCarty St., Jefferson City Mo., well-known employee of the Missouri Pacific R'y.

"Since taking Tanlac, I feel like a new man altogether," recently said Mr. Hahn, "and in spite of the fact that I'm past seventy, I'm putting in eight hours of work every day."

"For five years, I suffered from dizzy spells that nothing would relieve. At times they almost blinded me and I would have to be led to a chair in the roundhouse. I couldn't walk straight on the street and often when I bent over to fasten my shoes in the morning, I would topple right over on the floor. My system was just so loaded down with poison, or whatever caused this dizziness, that I would have spells as often as once a month, and I tell you, they were terrible.

"My friends put me on to Tanlac a year and a half ago, and sir, my very first bottle made me feel so much better that I went straight for another and then another. Tanlac made me relish my food, built me up fine and just worked wonders in relieving those dizzy spells. I still use Tanlac occasionally and when it comes to heading off dizzy spells, Tanlac sure does it. If any man doubts that Tanlac is a good tonic, just let him look up John H. Hahn."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

The Resurrection

EASTER being a movable feast, the event will be celebrated on April 20, but April 9 has been accepted as the actual date on which the resurrection occurred:

Most glorious Lord of Life, that on this day
Didst make Thy triumph over death
And having harrowed hell didst bring
Captivity thence captive, us to win;
This joyous day, dear Lord, with joy
begin,
And grant that we, for whom Thou didst die
Being with Thy dear blood clean-washed from sin,
May live forever in felicity,

Our Easter Prayer

By G. Laurence Allbutt

SAN Easter promise we have the Lord's assurance, "I am the resurrection and the life" (John 11:25) and "Because I live ye shall live also" (John 14:9). And as an Easter blessing we have His gracious "Peace be unto you" (John 20:19). But do we not need an Easter prayer, also as taught us by the Lord, that we may enter into the meaning and realization of His promise and of the blessing to which the promise looks forward? Here it is, as given to us: "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever."

For this is in the truest sense a prayer. It is the closing part of the Lord's Prayer. "After this manner pray ye," the Lord said. And at the end occurs the sacred word, "Amen," confirming all that has gone before. It means "be it so." It expresses our fervent desire to acknowledge all that the several petitions of the prayer imply and to enjoy the experience of what His kingdom, power and glory involve.

The Lord's Prayer is a complete record of all that the Lord has done for us. It tells us of "our Father in the heavens," elsewhere described as "the high and lofty one that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is holy" (Isa. 57:15), who yet came to establish His "kingdom" among men and to show how His "will" might be done among them. He spoke of Himself as "the bread of life" to them and the "forgiver" of their sins. He endured "temptations" against the hells to promote His work, but overcame and "delivered" us from the evil that otherwise had threatened. So "He hath taken His great power and hath reigned" (Rev. 11:17).

Whence there is, in brief, the whole story of the Lord's redemption as effected for us in the Lord's Prayer. And it tells, too, of His present work of salvation in us, as we follow Him, that we may know and co-operate with Him alone as our Heavenly Father; that we may reverence His name or character in all the graces of mercy, humility, justice and self-forgetfulness, which are embodied in Him; that a way may be prepared for the entrance of His kingdom into our minds, as the government of His love and wisdom there; that we may fulfill His will in all our earthly vocations and deeds; that His sustaining love as living bread, may be daily supplied, giving us strength for every state through which we pass; whence, under its influence, omissions of duty or debts—that is, failures to discharge our obligations to the Lord in the way of keeping His commandments—may be removed, so that we sink not in temptations, but may be able to go bravely through them, and be delivered from that root of evil which is self-will and self-pride in us. After which, for the communication of such favors, gratitude flows forth. "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen."

Easter teaches us of resurrection. It carries our thought to a world beyond the present. In the Lord's Prayer we take a descent from the Lord to our lowest needs. But then there is a return. When our needs are met, when His work is wrought in us, there is an ascent, a rising to Him, an aspiring to Him forever, by means of all that He hath done.

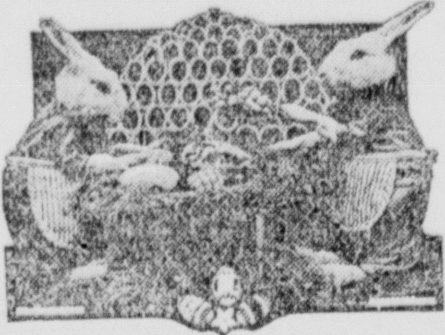

The prayer that the Lord's kingdom may be realized as His forever, is a prayer that He may find us the willing subjects of His kingdom; that as He overcame for us, and rose again, we may yield ourselves to Him as those in whom He can carry out His full designs, leading to the discharge of our duties in His sight with faithfulness, sincerity and diligence before Him. It is a prayer that this state may be strengthened in us day by day.

The prayer that the Lord's power may be acknowledged forever is a prayer that His love may have control forever in us. The Lord's kingdom is the government of His truth; the Lord's power is the love which accu- rates that truth. How His power shows itself in the activities of genuine love, ranging from the loftiest aims to the lowliest, even if it be only driving a nail into a plank to make it more secure for another's tread, or giving the hand to another to show a little fellow sympathy! All this is a power which we are receiving from the Lord to endure and to appear with greater intensity in the other life in the innumerable varieties of mutual good will which there abound.

As the sequel, that the Lord's glory may be forever, it indicates our desire for the splendor of His will to be reflected in our churches, where from first to last we are His.

GOVERNOR PAT M. NEFF SPEAKS HERE SATURDAY

TOURING STATE ON PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN MAY.

Pat M. Neff, governor of Texas, will speak at the court house in Cameron at two o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The governor will be introduced by T. S. Henderson, Sr. Mr. Neff will address the people on the forthcoming presidential primaries at which delegates are to be selected to go to the state convention in Waco.

The governor favors an uninstructed delegation to the New York convention and his declining to introduce William G. McAdoo, democratic candidate at Dallas, has led to wide speculation as to the choice of the governor in the New York convention as the standard bearer for democracy.

The governor is coming to Cameron at the request of the commercial club.

Marlin, Texas, April 11.—Governor Pat M. Neff will speak in Marlin at eight o'clock Friday night, April 18, according to announcement made here Saturday.

The Governor is on a speaking tour of Central Texas and will arrive in Marlin about six o'clock Friday evening from Groesbeck. A reception committee composed of about one hundred of the Texas Chief Executive's closest friends and supporters have arranged to meet him on his arrival here and escort him to the Falls County court house, where the speaking is to be held. The program committee plans to have the local band out to furnish music prior to the

Dull, Sluggish Feeling

"BLACK-DRAUGHT" is our household stand-by," says Mrs. Thomas H. Kell, who lives near Ellijay, Ga. "We have been using it years and years. My mother's family used it, and we do here and my four sisters do, too."

"I could not run my house without Black-Draught. I give it to the children whenever they need a purgative, and both Mr. Kell and myself take it. As a medicine for sluggish liver and headache, and the ills that come with constipation, Black-Draught is fine.

"Lots of times I have felt dull and sluggish, my head would ache and I had to make a great effort to do my work. A little dose of Black-Draught would correct this feeling. We always keep it on the medicine shelf."

Be sure that you get Thedford's, the old, reliable Black-Draught powdered herb liver medicine. At all dealers'.
